GOERING IN RAID

Flies Over London in Attack

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (AP)—Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering last night flew over London at the controls of a Junkers plane, authorized German sources declared today. Goering's plane, a JU-88, one of the latest type German planes, was accompanied by only two destroyer planes, the informants said. Returning to his air force headquarters in an unnamed village in Normandy, northwestern France, Goering was quoted as saying: "I am glad I made my air force such a strong weapon. It was the decisive force in Poland and Norway and undoubtedly it will play a similarly decisive role in the war with England." Goering was a fighting pilot in the World War and during the closing months of that conflict commanded the Richtofen Circus.

London firemen cool down the wreckage of a Nazi bomber which crashed in flames amidst the ruins of a building near the Victoria railway station yesterday. The downing of the Dornier plane was witnessed by thousands of persons, who, despite the air raid alarms, strolled the streets in holiday mood to watch the Royal Air Force and anti-aircraft defenses rout repeated attacks on the city. The British claim 185 German planes shot down in day.

GUNS ROAR INVASION THREAT

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP) — Detonation of artillery shells, lifted across 22 miles of the English channel, shook Dover today and German bombers repeatedly stabbed at the London area as Britain tensely awaited the next strategy of Adolf Hitler, which may be an attempt to invade this fortified island.

In rapid succession, the capital had four daylight air raid alarms.

Big German shells fell in Dover streets crowded with shoppers as correspondents in the "invasion corner" of Britain continued to report movements of many German troop carriers of all shapes and sizes close along the French and Belgian coasts under cover of night and mists.

For the first time in weeks, heavy rainfall partly shrouded activities at Hitler's bases across the channel.

Bursts of anti-aircraft fire and the sound of machine-guns over the London area indicated a big air battle was being fought this afternoon shortly after sirens signalled the fourth alarm at 2:10 p. m. Explosions like bombs were heard in the east.

Eleven persons were injured in the shelling of Dover.

Veteran seamen hoped a "stiff nor'easter" soon would pile up high waves on the French coast which would make impossible any immediate thrust across the narrow waters.

Alarms of a total duration of 1 hour and 54 minutes were sounded in the London area.

German sources said that heavy bombers had been taking off in a steady procession since early dawn, and that a "rolling" air barrage was being levelled at Britain.—Editor's note.

The all-clear signal sounded at 5:59 p. m. to end the fourth alarm since dawn, one of the longest daytime alarms of the war—three hours 49 minutes.

The Press Ass'n reported a single bomber dived from the clouds over one residential district in the fourth raid and dropped its load.

A mother was reported killed when her home, one of three hit, was shattered. Her three children were treated for shock at a hospital.

During the first alarm a large formation of bombers was encountered inland by British fighters, who turned it back.

GREAT BRITISH VICTORY

There was anti-aircraft activity in London during the third alarm, but the hundreds of batteries were silent throughout the second.

These thrusts followed a nine and a half hour night attack and a series of Sunday mass raids in which the British claimed their

ITALIANS SWEEP ON IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Sept. 16 (AP)—The British acknowledged today that Italian columns, heavily bombarded from the air and running into a constant stream of fire from British armored cars, had pushed 25 miles into Egypt to the village of Buqbuq, on the coastal road.

Tanks, armored cars and motorcycle units protected by bombing and fighting planes are leading Marshal Rudolfo Graziani's forces, which have been advancing across the burning sands of the western desert since Saturday, the British said.

So far, they declared, little resistence has been put up and the Italians have been permitted to advance over "No Man's Land" with the British concentrating on inflicting casualties and smashing motor transport units.

GUERILLA WAR ON

Native Libyan troops were said to be bearing the brunt of the British guerilla warfare.

The Italian troops knifed down a Mediterranean coastal road yesterday and occupied desert villages —including Bir Nuh, seven miles south of Sollum, a port near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, which, with the British-abandoned village of Musaid, was taken over by the Fascist force Saturday night.

The RAF said its attacks were "successful" and that moving troops had been bombed, great damage

Commons Secret Session to Get Air Raid Facts

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP) — A general debate on the war, especially the effect of German air raids on London, probably will be held by the House of Commons at its next meeting, informed sources said today.

London members were said to be anxious for full discussion of problems of hardest hit city areas.

Henceforth, it has been made known, there will be no advance announcement of the hour or even day of Parliament's meetings. This secrecy is imposed for "security reasons," it was said.

NAZIS ADMIT HEAVY LOSSES BUT VOW RAIDS TO KEEP ON

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (AP)—The German air force, acknowledged to be meeting increasingly stiff resistance from London's defenders, swept back against the British capital today after a full Sunday of furious attacks which cost an admitted loss of 43 Nazi raiders.

The German high command reported, however, the British paid almost two-for-one, with 74 of their planes shot down in Sunday's fighting, two by anti-aircraft batteries and three by Nazi naval patrol boats—a total of 79.

The acknowledged German losses were the greatest of any single day since the start of the battle for Britain. The British reported they downed 185 German planes—also a record day's claim—and lost 25 of their own craft Sunday.—Editor's note.

Despite the increased British resistance, authorized German sources said the German attackers still were able to reach their objectives, and asserted the air siege would continue with undiminished vigor until Britain waves the white flag.

FIERCE AIR BATTLES

Roaring through adverse weather during the night, German planes were reported by the high command to have scored direct hits on a gas works at Bromley, industrial plants and other targets in the London area, port facilities at Dover and Portland on the channel coast, Liverpool on the west coast, Birmingham in the midlands, and an airplane factory at Southampton.

"Fierce air battles developed in the course of these raids," it acknowledged.

Raids also were reported on ship convoys off the Irish, Scottish and English coasts in which, the high command said, two merchantmen, totaling 18,000 tons, were sunk; one was set afire and several were damaged.

Another 8000-ton merchantman was reported sunk in the English

All Husbands Exempt In Draft, F. D. Signs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt will sign into law at 4 p. m. (EDT) today the nation's first peace-time conscription bill.

Stephen Early, White House press secretary, said the Chief Executive probably would immediately issue a proclamation and an executive order putting the draft into effect and "give out an A B C explanatory statement."

Meanwhile, it was reported all married men living with their wives could expect exemption from conscription during, at least, the first draft of 400,000 compulsory military service trainees.

Under selective service regulations which the President will put in force, officials said, such men will be presumed to have dependents, regardless of the financial situation of their wives.

DIVORCED MEN OUT TOO

The regulations will be subject to change at any time, however. If war or some other emergency demanded a large number of men in quick order, the dependency status of married men undoubtedly would be subject to close scrutiny.

Since the great majority of married men actually are the sole support of their wives and since no difficulty is anticipated in filling the first draft quota out of a registration of 16,500,000, it is planned to dispense initially with the extensive investigations that would be required to determine whether or not a wife was self-supporting or independently wealthy and not dependent upon her husband.

Divorced men paying alimony or supporting children also can expect to be exempted, if investigation by local selective service boards shows that such wives and children actually are dependent upon the registrant.

It was indicated that the proclamation would fix the date when 16,500,000 men, aged 21 through 35, would be required to register for military service.

Early said signing of the historic legislation would take place in the White House cabinet room in the presence of Chairmen Sheppard (D.) of Texas and May (D.) of Kentucky of the Senate and House military committees, and of Secretary of War Stimson and Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff.

BAN ON HOLIDAY

Early said a movement had been started "throughout the country" to make registration day a national holiday.

"But it has been definitely rejected by the President," he added, "because it would throw business and industry out of gear and men would be thrown out of work for the day."

The White House announced 36,000 of the first 400,000 men drafted would be Negroes. A statement by Early said the Civil Aeronautics authority, in co-operation with the army, was making "a start in the development of colored personnel for the aviation service."

Early said the statement had approval of Secretary of War Stimson and Gen. Marshall.

The statement said:

"Colored citizens constitute approximately 9 per cent of the total population of the United States and the men selected for military service will be in about the same ratio."

ACTRESS ANSWERS DAD'S SUIT

ACTRESS Paulette Goddard (Mrs. Charles Chaplin) today was scheduled to appear in Los Angeles court to answer suit of her father, Joseph Levee of Albany, N. 2 KILLED, 2 HURT IN EVERETT FALL

Two men were killed today and two were critically injured when they all plunged 60 feet from the roof of the Eastern Gas & Fuel Co. building under construction in Rover st., Everett, near the waterfront.

One of the men died in the ambulance as Everett police were rushing him to Whidden Memorial Hospital. He was identified as John McLaughlin, 30 of Smith ave., West Newton.

The man killed outright in the plunge was Vincenzo Diffino, McBride ct., Waltham.

Two others badly injured and with their names on the danger list at the same hospital, are Martin Coogan, 7, of Plummer st., Everett, and Michael Delfino, 30, of McBride ct., Waltham.

Police said that the foreman was one of the four who plunged from a staging high up on the building framework, and he was the only man who knew the roofers.

Because of the condition of the two injured men, police were unable to question them.

HURRICANE IS OFF N. E.; AID FOR SHIP

At least one Boston-bound passenger liner battled gale-force winds and heavy seas today as a tropical hurricane roared along the Atlantic coast on a course which weather experts figured would take it well away from New England.

The Weather Bureau said the storm was expected to pass some distance east of Nantucket late today.

A 10:30 advisory said:

"Northeast storm warnings continued 10:30 a. m., Block Island, R. I., to Eastport, Me. Tropical storm central this morning about 250 miles southeast of Nantucket, moving northeastward about 23 miles per hour attended by gales over a wide area and by winds of hurricane force over a small area near its center.

STILL DANGEROUS STORM

"Indications are storm center will reach southwestern Nova Scotia late this afternoon or early tonight. No dangerous winds or tides expected on New England coast but this is still a dangerous storm with winds of full gale force about 100 miles east and southeast of Nantucket. Caution advised vessels in path."

The Merchant and Miners passenger liner Chatham, bound from Baltimore to Boston, was eight hours behind schedule and was reported encountering head winds and pounding seas.

Also caught near the storm's turbulent center, the Swedish freighter Laponia was reported disabled and in sinking condition.

In response to her desperate SOS calls, three U. S. vessels, including two Coast Guard cutters and the liner President Roosevelt, bucked the gale to speed to her assistance.

REACH CRIPPLED SHIP

The New York coast guard station said the President Roosevelt had radioed she sighted the Laponia about 10:15 a. m. and was preparing to stand by. The storm had moderated considerably and the greatest danger appeared past. In addition to the President Roosevelt, the coast guard cutters Sebago and Carrabasset from the Virginia Capes were expected to reach the scene by mid-afternoon.

The Laponia's captain had flashed a message saying one of his masts had been carried away and his vessel was dangerously waterlogged from leaks in the afterpeak and steering engine room.

The wind was lessening then, however, and the captain had said his vessel could be kept afloat until help came. He said he was jettisoning his cargo to give the freighter added buoyancy.

The Boston liner was reported in no danger, although the rough weather inconvenienced passengers and caused some superficial damage.

Due here at 7:30 a. m., the Chatham would be unable actually to dock before late afternoon, officials of the line announced.

Woman Falls Under Wheels Of El Train

An unidentified woman, between 50 and 55, was saved from death beneath the wheels of a Cambridge-bound tunnel train today, when the operator, seeing her plunge into the pit at Park St. Under station, brought his train to an emergency halt.

The woman, taken from beneath the front trucks of the train by firemen who jacked it up, was rushed to City Hospital, where she was listed as in critical condition from a fractured hip, broken leg and internal injuries.

Scores of El patrons saw the woman fall and many women screamed as Guard John M. Agrusso of Arlington rushed to flag the train. Motorman James T. Kineavy was able to halt the train only after the forward truck had passed over the victim.

N.E. Draft Boards Ready for Call

Draft administrators throughout New England were scheduled to be inducted to active service either today or tomorrow.

Massachusetts draft administrators revealed at the same time that all is in readiness for speedy handling of the work that lies ahead. They stated they already have prepared for Gov. Saltonstall a complete list of proposed members of the 177 local boards to be set up in this state.

Throughout New England, other states had similarly prepared. It was stated that preparation has been so thorough that even if President Roosevelt should shorten the anticipated interval between the signing of the bill and the actual registration this would offer no serious hinderance to plans.

HUB GUARD ON ARMY DUTY

They're spending their days in armories, their nights at home and they get their meals in restaurants, but more than 2000 Greater Boston national guardsmen are in the army now.

Two Massachusetts regiments, the 211th and 241st, both coast artillery, reported today as units of the 60,000 citizen soldiers mustered into federal service throughout the nation by presidential order.

Members of the 211th, better known to Bay Staters as the First Corps Cadets, turned out more than a thousand strong at the armory in Columbus ave. They will probably leave the city for Camp Edwards, Falmouth, Wednesday or Thursday.

GO TO TEXAS SOON

After a month under canvas at Falmouth, they are to move to Fort Hulen, Texas, to complete a year's intensive training in anti-aircraft technique.

At Irvington St. Armory the more than 800 members of the 241st reported. Known in military history as the Old First Massachusetts Regiment, this unit dates its founding back to 1784.

Other members of the 241st reported at armories in Chelsea and Fall River.

After about ten days its members will be stationed in various forts in Boston harbor: Forts Strong, Andrews, Warren, Standish, Revere, Duval, Heath and Ruckman. They, too, will train in anti-aircraft work for their year of service.

LEARN ABOUT WEAPONS

Today, however, the guardsmen were going through stiff physical tests at their respective armories. Maj. Jacob Banquer was putting men of the 241st through their paces, Capt. James Stillman examining the 211th.

While the physical examinations are going on, various groups will be given training in the mechanics of their weapons. The 241st had on the floor of the Irvington st. armory two 10-inch disappearing guns of the type used in the harbor forts, the 211th had several mobile anti-aircraft guns.

For the period they remain in the armories, the men will take lunch and supper wherever they please. They are allowed 40 cents a day each for rations. As there are at present no extensive sleeping quarters, they will go home nights.

Each man was being supplied with full field equipment. Col. William D. Tottam, commanding officer of the 241st, estimated the cost at $200 a man. The 211th is commanded by Col. Stuart Hall.

Girl Charges Uncle Beat Her With Belt

Whenever she spoke to her father, her uncle used to strip her and beat her with a belt, 14-year-old Mary Crane of Highland st., Roxbury, charged in Suffolk Probate Court today.

"I saw him beat my sister Catherine, too," she asserted. "And he was always beating Jackie (a brother) the same way."

This testimony was given in a hearing on a petition by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nee of Ashley st., Jamaica Plain, seeking permanent guardianship of two of five Crane children, Catherine, 11, and John, 9.

Opposing the guardianship was Patrick J. Crane, whose wife, a sister-in-law of Nee, died May 1, 1932. He claimed he did not know of it when the Nees were appointed temporary guardians of the two children last month. He wants the children back, he told the court.

SAYS FATHER UNFIT

Nee testified the father was unfit to take care of his own children because he drank to excess. He said that on the day his sister-in-law died Crane had asked him to take the youngsters.

"I've grown to love these children," Nee testified. "John is studying violin and they have a happy home."

The uncle emphatically denied in cross-examination that he had ever beaten them or that the reason he sought their guardianship was to assure himself of continued employment. He is childless. He said he was an alien, but had taken out first papers and having the children would not guarantee his job in a Boston cold storage plant, although their presence in his home might help him to get more salary.

TELLS OF BEATINGS

When Mary, who lives with her father and two younger sisters, took the stand, she said she had lived with her uncle and aunt for a time before returning home.

Nee beat her several times, she testified, the occasions being when she spoke to her father.

"I had marks and blisters on my body as a result," the girl declared, "and Jackie's body was all blistered."

She said while she lived at the Nee home they used to make beer in the kitchen.

2 SCHOOL GIRLS HURT BY BUS

Thrown clear of the sedan in which they were riding when a skidding empty school bus knocked it over a curbstone and down a five-foot embankment in North st., King Oak Hill, Weymouth Heights, today, two high school girls and the father of one suffered serious injuries.

Police said when they arrived at the scene, Marion Walsh, 16, was lying unconscious beside the car and the driver, Merrill C. MacDonald, 42, and his daughter, Doris, 16, lay nearby in a dazed condition.

The names of all three, who live in Weybosset st., North Weymouth, were placed on the danger list at Weymouth Hospital.

The Walsh girl suffered internal injuries and probable back injuries. MacDonald has a broken right leg and fractured collar bone and his daughter sustained a broken left arm and broken rib.

Kenneth Gardner of Commercial st., East Weymouth, driver of a Lovell Lines bus, was not injured in the crash which nearly demolished the MacDonald sedan.

According to police, Gardner said the bus skidded when he applied his brakes just above the junction of Commercial and North sts.

After twisting out of control for about 100 feet, Gardner said, the bus slithered around on the pavement and smashed into the MacDonald car, the driver of which was trying to avoid it.

Fake Officer Fined $50 In Picking Real One

Stopping a car driven by a real policeman while he was posing as an officer himself cost Maurice J. Mahoney, a drug clerk of Hamilton st., Newton Lower Falls, $50 in Newton court today.

Judge Donald E. Mayberry imposed the fine after Mahoney pleaded guilty to the charge of impersonating an officer brought by John J. Fitzsimmons, a Newton police officer. Fitzsimmons said he was ordered to stop on Washington st. early today when Mahoney flashed a Michigan state police badge.

Recess Slows Defense Bills

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The sudden death of Speaker William B. Bankhead of the House forced congressional leaders today to discard well formulated plans for adjournment by the coming week-end.

The three-day House recess to permit members to attend Bankhead's funeral at Jasper, Ala., necessarily deferred the start of action on the $2,000,000,000 defense appropriations measure which contains the funds to meet conscription costs.

The Senate met an hour earlier than usual and planned to resume consideration of the complicated excess profits tax legislation, with debate limited to 30-minutes.

Sen. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader, predicted the bill would be approved before nightfall and sent to a joint committee of both houses to iron out major differences.

WAR CORRESPONDENT DINED—International News Service war correspondent, Kenneth T. Downs, is flanked by (left) Harold G. Downs Relates How Spies Ruined France

Kenneth T. Downs, International News Service correspondent, today told more than 250 members of the Hearst Round Table and their luncheon guests the graphic and tragic events which preceded surrender of France to Nazi military might.

Speaking at the Chamber of Commerce, Downs traced the chronological development of the downfall of the French nation before a "cruel and ruthless military machine supported by propaganda and scheming Fifth Columnists.

From a nation united in the autumn of 1939, Downs said, the French people passed through a winter of inactivity to emerge divided and unprepared for the onslaught of a Nazi army skilled in a new technique of attack.

Painting a picture of cloudless skies swarming with bombers the ace war correspondent told of unbelievable damage wrought in the face of pitiful attempts at defense.

NAZIS' CRUSHING BLOWS

Control of the entire battle rested with German airmen, Downs said, making it impossible for the French to organize either for successful defense or for possible counter-attack.

Crackup of the French 9th army entrusted with holding the avenues of attack leading to the Meuse was blamed by Downs on poor equipment and the inferior quality of the troops.

From that time on, he related, it was but a short step to the bombing of the outskirts of Paris and the separation of the Allied armies in Belgium from those entrenced in northern France.

The rout before Paris found French soldiers vainly giving their lives in a last mighty effort to save their nation. But Downs related, their sacrifices failed even to ruffle the timetable of the onrushing Nazi juggernaut.

AT MERCY OF NAZIS

When Gen. Weygand's proposal to defend Paris was voted down there was nothing left for the French but to flee in panic to the south, according to Downs.

Downs said the scenes encountered on the roads to Tours and Bordeaux were indescribable. Crowds at the mercy of German airmen were gripped with a madness that at times threatened anarchy.

Then came capitulation and a thrill-packed escape to England. English efforts to beat back the German attackers Downes described as magnificent.

Seated at the head table were Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Boston Record-American Sunday Advertiser; Ernest Hoftyzer, coordinattoor of the Hearst Round Table luncheons, and Leslie F. Barnard, N. E. manager of the Rodney Boone advertising agency.

Also Winfield Brooks, managing editor of the American; James P. Murphy, managing editor of the Daily Record; Herbert Caryl, manager of the Boston office of International News Service, and John W. Giesen, associate advertising director of the Hearst Boston papers.

ARRIVING in Boston to aid in preparations for the national American Legion convention, Mrs. Cecelia Wenz (left), treasurer of the American Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Gwendolyn MacDowell, Auxiliary secretary, detrain at South Station. They're both from Indianapolis.

COMMANDER KELLY IS DUE TO LAUNCH LEGION REUNION

While an army of 1000 city workers completed last-minute touches on Dame Boston's make-up, National Commander Raymond J. Kelly of the American Legion was due in the city tomorrow morning from New York.

Coming here for the 22d national Legion convention to be held Sept. 22-26, Commander Kelly of Detroit was accompanied by his wife and their six children, ranging in age from seven to 18 years.

WORK SLOWS TRAFFIC

Traffic in downtown Boston was slowed down over the week-end while workers under direction of Public Works Commissioner George Hyland spread hundreds of square yards of asphalt over the parade route and other streets.

Every department in the city was working at full speed to beautify the city, Mayor Tobin said. The water division was placing a number of bubblers on fire hydrants and the hydrants themselves were being painted yellow and black to designate them.

The Advertising Club of Boston will give a luncheon to Commander Kelly and other national officers of the convention corporation of the Legion, at Hotel Statler at noon tomorrow. This will be Commander Kelly's first official convention appearance in the city. Gov. Saltonstall and Mayor Tobin also will be guests.

OPEN HEADQUARTERS

The first contingent of the Legion national headquarters staff, of 35 persons headed by Adjt. Frank E. Samuel, arrived from Indianapolis yesterday afternoon and established headquarters at the Copley Plaza and Statler Hotels. Administrative executives of the Legion and Auxiliary were in the party. The national Legion headquarters will be at the Statler and the Auxiliary at the Copley Plaza.

When the personnel of the entire national staffs, from Indianapolis, Washington and the field service, have assembled it will total 100 men and women.

Business offices and national press headquarters will be opened today in Horticultural hall. Edward McGrail, national publicity officer, and his crew, will be on duty from today until the end of convention activities. There will be more than 40 stenographers on duty.

BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scouts will serve as messengers. By vote of the school committee, and subject to parental wishes, Boy Scouts required for messenger service, including 150 for parade duty, will be excused from studies.

Arrival of the administrative staffs yesterday climaxed months of preliminary work of the 1940 national convention corporation, headed by Glenwood J. Sherrard, president, and a board of directors made up of 50 prominent Bay State legionnaires.

The American Legion comes to Boston for its 1940 convention with the largest membership in its history—1,060,000. It's last national convention was held here in 1930.

Following religious services next Sunday, the opening meeting of the convention at Boston Arena at 10 next Monday will be a joint session of Legion and Auxiliary delegates.

The resolutions committee will report 400 resolutions, one of the most important of which will be a pledge to respond immediately to the call of the government for service in peace or war.

"The 1940 convention," said Commander Kelly yesterday, "will be the most important in the Legion's 22-years' history. Because of the present war situation overseas, discussions and debates by delegates to the Boston convention will attract world-wide attention."

2 Wives Sue Same Man to Cut All Ties

SALEM, Sept. 16—Two wives, both of whom seek to discard him, testified today in probate court against William J. Burke of Beverly, who allegedly married the second wife while still possessed of Wife No. 1.

To the aid of the first wife, who seeks a divorce, came the second, who has filed annulment proceedings, and Judge John V. Phelan, at conclusion of the hearing, took the divorce case under advisement.

Wife No. 1 is Mrs. Ruth Bertha Burke of Lowell st., Manchester, N. H., who was married at Manchester to Burke on Feb. 22, 1936.

As her witness, the former Miss Mary Creagh of Lynn testified that on May 28, 1938, she was married to Burke at Seabrook, N. H., and lived with him in Beverly until Jan. 14, 1939, when her mother discovered he had a wife.

Her annulment proceedings are still pending.

The first Mrs. Burke testified that 10 days before Christmas, 1936, she left Burke after a quarrel.

"I had had constant trouble with him," she said, "over his running around with different women and drinking."

He even brought women to the house, she said, but not while she was there.

According to her testimony, on the day she left, he told her he no longer wanted to be married or bothered with her or the child, Nancy, now four. Mrs. Burke asked custody of the child.

Reading Between the Lines

Hubbies Shy on Alimony Rouse Court's Ire, Face Jail

For a time today in Middlesex Probate Court it was pretty confusing, with Bennett J. Wilson consigned to jail for non-payment of support, but with a woman and child waiting in his car outside, in the rain, and she unable to drive.

Wilson was one of two husbands allegedly in arrears and who received some caustic language from Judge John K. Leggat.

Wilson's case was the more complex of the two. According to counsel for his wife, Mrs. Helen J. Wilson of Malden, whose divorce suit is pending, he earns $22 a week as a garage employe in Natick, but is living there with another woman.

He had been ordered to pay his wife $7 a week for support of their child, pending the divorce action, but is allegedly more than $50 behind.

So when Judge Leggat informed Wilson he must have half the sum, or $25.97, in court by Thursday or go to jail for contempt, Wilson started to walk away, then turned back toward the bench, saying:

"Well, I might as well stay right here."

"It's all right with me," replied Judge Leggat, "if you want to give up a $22-a-week job. Thirty days."

When court officers started to take him across the street to East Cambridge jail, however, Wilson had a change of heart.

"I'm going a long way with you," said the judge as he retracted the 30-day sentence and ordered Wilson to produce the money tomorrow or go to jail.

Allegedly behind more than $400 on a court order to pay $7 a week for support of his divorced wife and six-year-old son, Eric G. Hamstrom of Waltham was told by Judge Leggat:

"You'll get up a substantial payment in three weeks or you may as well bring your pajamas when you come in here again."

London Beats Back Nazi Dawn Attack

greatest air victory of any single day of the war—185 German planes shot down on British soil.

Anti-aircraft gunners of the 8789-ton steamship Port Auckland shot down a German bomber over the Thames during the air attacks yesterday, the admiralty announced.

Interspaced in the long night attack was a half-hour "silent" raid in which large numbers of time bombs or duds were dropped on London without exploding.

The government acknowledged that many buildings in London had been damaged during the dusk-to-dawn raid, exceeded only in duration by the nine-hour-and-40-minute attack one week ago, but the admission was accompanied by claims of the greatest Royal Air Force victory since the battle of Britain began.

Against the 185 German planes shot down the British said they had lost only 25 of their own fighters, and declared that the pilots of 12 of these were safe.

The greatest previous day's "bag" of German aircraft was recorded on Aug. 15, when the British said 180 were downed.

British fighter planes were credited with destroying 178 of the raiders yesterday in a series of massed daylight attacks on the capital. Anti-aircraft guns accounted for the remaining seven.

During the night attack, which began at 8:07 p. m. (2:07 p. m. EST) and continued to 5:35 a. m., the Germans changed their tactics and resorted to the use of small formations which hammered at London's defenses at regular intervals.

The raiders also struck at numerous other areas in Northwest and Southeast England and South Wales, but the government said that most of the bombs fell in rural areas and that damage was not extensive. One bomber was reported shot down during the night.

NAZIS USE NEW TACTICS

Reports from various parts of the London area indicated that time bombs were dropped in showers and observers speculated that the Germans were adopting new tactics in an effort to disrupt life in the capital.

Among the buildings damaged by high explosive or incendiary bombs the government listed three hospitals, which were not identified by name, private homes and "commercial premises."

Terrific gunfire echoed in the metropolitan area at intervals throughout the night, but comparative quiet prevailed in central London during the latter hours of the alarm.

During the daylight raids Sunday two heavy bombs and a number of incendiaries were dropped on Buckingham Palace, already bombed twice previously.

The king and queen were not at the palace when the projectiles came screaming from the skies. None of the missles exploded, but one fell in the queen's apartment, causing considerable damage.

A British fighter pounced upon the German plane which loosed the bombs on the palace and literally shot it to pieces. The Nazi pilot fell dead on the roof of a nearby building, his parachute unopened.

The British plane also was damaged in the fight and the pilot baled out, receiving a hero's welcome as he parachuted to safety in the same neighborhood.

While London's defenders were fighting furiously yesterday to ward off attacks on the capital, a "suicide squad" unearthed an 1100 pound time-bomb which for days had menaced historic St. Paul's Cathedral, trundled it out of town in a truck and detonated it harmlessly in the Hackney marshes.

Forty-five-year-old Lieut. R. Davies of the Royal Canadian Engineers, who directed removal of the bomb, was hailed as a hero.

MERCHANTS OF DEATH—Honored for the part he and his company are playing in Germany's war successes, Dr. Krupp von Bohlen, head of the great Krupp munitions company, is congratulated by Fuehrer Hitler at Essen. The Krupp works supply the greater part of war sinews for the Nazis.

inflicted on expeditionary equipment and many fires started in Italian-held territory. There was no contact of ground forces, but British artillery and armored cars were pouring a constant heavy fire on the advancing Italians.

WAIT MAIN FORCE

The British showed no signs of stiffening to meet the Italian drive, led by Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. They appeared to be waiting the main force of the attack and discounted the early Fascist successes as comprising merely the occupation of desert wastes.

There was widespread speculation as to whether the present Italian thrust, which began Saturday, really constituted the first step of a general offensive or merely was another local operation.

Many expressed the view that it was designed merely to hold the frontier and prevent continued British raids, which have resulted in the capture of many Italian soldiers, including one general.

Graziani apparently intended to use Bir Nuh as a supply base for the Egyptian campaign, since he left a sizeable force there to start building camps.

Italians Claim British Line Broken Near Libya

ROME, Sept. 16 (AP)—Italian forces have broken through the first important line of permanent British fortifications facing the Libyan frontier in their advance through Salum, the newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia reported today.

Il Giornale declared the line was "well equipped and reinforced." The British in that zone, the paper said, were using columns of armored cars for mobile, guerrilla warfare "conducted with the most modern mechanical equipment." Much of the material was supplied by Henry Ford and built for the particular needs of the desert, it declared.

Germans Plan To Keep Raiding

channel by a plane attacking at night.

Numerous new fires were reported set off by raids on Liverpool and Birmingham, the great west coast industrial centers which have been repeatedly attacked by the Nazi air force.

They promised the assault would be continued with undiminished vigor until Britain capitulated.

German anti-aircraft defenses were given credit for beating off another British attempt to retaliate on the Berlin area late last night and early today.

TWO ALARMS

The Nazi capital had two air raid alarms, each of about 30 minutes, but authorities said that British planes which tried to approach the city were scattered by the outer defenses.

Berliners say that a British attempt at large scale reprisals for the continued bombing of London is certain to come and they took more or less as a matter of course the alarms which twice routed them from their beds.

NEW FIRES STARTED

During Sunday's attacks on London, the Germans said, new fires were started at the Albert Dock and the East and West India Docks. A direct bomb hit was reported on a pumping station at Woolwich, London suburb famed for its arsenal, and on several power plants.

Airports, railways and harbors in Southern England also were reported "effectively bombed." Armament plants at Liverpool, gas works and factories at Warrington and Brighton and a number of railroad centers between London and the channel coast were among specific objectives mentioned as attacked.

In addition to these operations one Nazi pilot reported he had sunk a British cruiser off northwest Ireland. An 8000-ton merchant ship also was reported sunk in a week-end attack on a convoy off northern Ireland and another was said to have been badly damaged.

The same sources said that between that date and Saturday, 283 British and 82 German planes had been lost, while German planes or submarines had destroyed 150,000 tons of British shipping.

London Crowd Tears Up Nazi Pilot's 'Chute

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—A wounded German aviator who was shot down in a London suburb was captured last night by a detachment of soldiers who fended off a crowd that surrounded him and tore his parachute to pieces for souvenirs.

"Kamerad!" the German shouted repeatedly.

"I am an officer," he kept insisting as the soldiers led him away.

Blum to Face War Guilt Trial

VICHY, France, Sept. 16 (AP)—Former Socialist Premier Leon Blum was locked up today at Chateau Chazeron, feudal castle near Rom where four other top-flight leaders of pre-armistice France are held in the war guilt investigation.

Like the others — former Premiers Edouard Daladier and Paul Reynaud, [illegible] Gamelin, former generalissimo of the Allied armies, and former Minister Georges Mandel — Blum faces the possibility of trial before the Riom war blame court.

Blum, whose government is blamed by the present Petain regime for a large share of responsibility, came to power in 1936 and pushed through a number of social reforms, including the 40-hour work week.

POLITICAL RACE IN FINAL STRETCH

With only hours left for radio and sound truck appeals, Democrats and Republicans swung into a stretch drive today for the primary nominations they all seemed confident will bring party victory in November.

By far the outstanding primary feud was that of Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever and former Lieut. Gov. Francis E. Kelly, both of whom confidently predicted that tomorrow's polling would land them the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Waiting to test the wares was Gov. Saltonstall, unopposed for his Republican party's nomination for a second term.

CLAIMS DEVER FAILS

Kelly addressed a thronged and enthusiastic meeting in Pemberton sq. this afternoon, and said at this meeting:

"The issues are so clear between Mr. Dever and myself, there is no doubt but that the Democratic voters will return me their nominee by a tremendous margin.

"Mr. Dever's attempts to deceive the electorate have failed lamentably. The voters know that if Dever is named it will wreck the Democratic party. He has failed so miserably to protect the interests of the people and to perform the duties of his office that Governor Saltonstall is certain to order an investigation of Dever's office if he is made the Democratic nominee.

"The Republicans have been waiting patiently for just such an opening.

"The entire public record of Francis E. Kelly is spotlessly clean. There is no loophole in his armor through which the Republicans can launch an attack."

DENIES INSURANCE TIE

Dever at Symphony Hall challenged his rival to find any connection between himself and the Canton Mutual Liability Insurance Co. Dever said he had petitioned the company into receivership and that a special recess commission, employing investigators at great expense, had never dared to say that he was in any way connected with the company.

"My record of decency in public life, of honesty in public service is unimpeachable," he said. "It has been established throughout my entire 12 years of political service in this Commonwealth. It cannot be destroyed or challenged and I shall maintain it always."

By way of rebuttal to the Dever statements, Kelly produced James J. Holden of Washington st., Jamaica Plain, who said he was crippled for life from an accident involving an automobile insured by the Canton Mutual.

At Riverview Ballroom, Gallivan blvd., Dorchester, termed by Kelly the climax rally with his neighbors, Holden identified a letter he had written, in which he charged he had been unable to collect from the Canton Mutual and blamed Dever for his difficulties.

CANDIDATE—Seeking Democratic nomination for Secretary of State is former Rep. Katherine M. Foley of Lawrence.

Russell Abbatoir Plan Is Weighed

Acquisition of the Brighton abbatoir by the federal government for national defense purposes, as proposed by former Cong. Richard M. Russell of Cambridge, candidate for re-election, is now under consideration by the War Department according to an announcement from Washington yesterday.

Because of its proximity to the Watertown Arsenal, Russell recommended that the abbatoir be converted into an extension of the arsenal or used as a depot for ordnance and quartermaster supply corps.

Hottest political campaigns in the state are being waged for the Democratic nominations to Suffolk County posts—Sheriff, Clerk of Superior Civil Court and Governor's Councilor in the 2nd district.

The sheriff's fight is a four cornered battle with strong factions backing each of the candidates and the result anyone's guess.

Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan, appointed by Gov. Saltonstall to fill the term of the fugitive former Sheriff John F. Dowd; State Sen. John E. Kerrigan, of South Boston, former Senator Edward C. Carroll, also of South Boston; and Timothy W. Murphy, are the candidates.

As in all county fights, winning of the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election as the county is overwhelmingly Democratic. No Republican has sought the nomination.

Ten candidates are racing for the nomination to the $6800-a-year Superior Civil Court Clerk's post vacated by John Patrick Connolly. Connolly's wife is one of them.

MURPHY SCORES DORGAN

Asst. Dist. Atty. Timothy Joseph Murphy, candidate for clerk of Suffolk County Civil Court, at a noon day rally in Pemberton sq., declaring that he had been a lifelong Democrat who had supported the entire Democratic ticket since he cast his first vote, charged that Dorgan was an employe of Henry Parkman and was supporting Parkman against U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh.

He called upon the voters to "remember this treachery" when they go to the polls tomorrow.

Other candidates are: Dr. Joseph Santosuosso, North End; Edw. F. Ford, South Boston; Thomas L. McDermott, Jamaica Plain; Thomas A. Sullivan, William Griffin and Richard Joyce, all of South Boston.

Maurice H. Sullivan, youthful city councilor, is the chief opponent of the veteran W. T. A. Fitzgerald for the Register of Deeds post. Edward Sullivan, a South End candidate, is the third candidate.

Once more Daniel H. Coakley is up against a stiff fight to hold his seat as governor's councillor from the second district, but this time the chances of his defeat are enhanced by the Republican redistricting of the district.

Leading the seven candidates against Coakley is Robert E. Bigney, the former senator from South Boston who has been a perennial foe of Coakley and who, except for fields which split the vote, might have defeated him before.

Others in the fight include: George A. Murray of South Boston, former City Council president; John A. Sawtelle of Dorchester, Rep. Francis X. Coyne of Dorchester, School Committeeman Joseph Lee, Jr., Thomas F. Daley of South Boston, and John J. Sullivan, Dorchester.

Running for Lieutenant-Governor are Mayor John C. Carr of Medford, Owen A. Gallagher of Boston, Francis P. Kelley of Milton, Michael P. McCarron of Lowell, Charles E. O'Neill of Danvers and Raymond A. Willeter, Jr., of Woburn.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL FIGHT

Contesting for attorney general are former Asst. Dist. Atty. Harold W. Sullivan, of Boston; James H. Brennan, Thomas M. Burke, of Boston; Mayor John W. Lyons, of Cambridge; Edward A. Ryan, of Worcester; former State Sen. Joseph Finnegan of Dorchester; Jeannette C. Chisholm of Waltham, Joseph V. Carroll, of Belmont, and John H. Backus, of New Bedford.

Seeking the nomination for secretary of state were Albert L. Fish, of Boston, Mrs. Katherine A. Foley, of Lawrence, Arthur M. McCarthy, of Winthrop and Rep. Albert E. Morris, of Everett.

For the office of state treasurer, were Ernest J. Brown, of Medford, Patrick M. Cahill, of Peabody, Joseph W. Doherty of Brookline, John J. Donahue of Somerville and John J. McGrath of Boston.

For auditor were Thomas F. Flaherty, Thomas J. Buckley and Leo E. Walsh of Boston, and William T. Husband, Jr., of Belmont.

Bankhead Rites Held In Capitol

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Headed by President Roosevelt, official Washington paid its respects today to Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral in the House chamber.

Wm. Bankhead

The 66-year-old speaker, an administration stalwart for the past seven years, died early yesterday after an internal hemorrhage. He was stricken a week ago in Baltimore a short time before he was to address a political rally.

At the conclusion of the services, a special train will leave the capital bearing Speaker Bankhead's body to his home in Jasper, Ala.

President Roosevelt, a committee of 60 House members, and other representatives of officialdom will accompany the body south to attend the final services. A three-day House recess will be taken.

Mr. Roosevelt, who received word of Bankhead's death while cruising on the Potomac, said that "every American loses a tried and proven friend of our system of government." The President's tribute was one of the many mourning Bankhead's passing.

Rayburn Elected Speaker of House

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Sam Rayburn, 58-year-old Texas Democrat, was elected speaker of the House of Representatives by acclamation today while the body of his predecessor, the late William B. Bankhead of Alabama, lay in state at the foot of the House rostrum.

Members of a Democratic conference held just before the election said there was no discussion regarding filling the majority leadership which Rayburn is vacating, and some expressed belief that nothing would be done about it immediately.

Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, the Democratic whip, told newsmen, however, he would be a candidate for the floor leadership.

ECONOMY IS VITAL TO U. S.---WILLKIE

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Sept. 16 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, his voice completely restored, said today the basic defense America must make is rehabilitation of domestic economy.

The Republican presidential nominee told a crowd around his train at Pleasant Hill, Mo.:

"One of the basic differences between the doctrines preached by Franklin D. Roosevelt and myself is that Mr. Roosevelt thinks the building of defense depends primarily on battleships, arms and guns, while I think it is as important to build up domestic economy."

Willkie said he would demonstrate during the campaign that an adequate defense could not be built under the Roosevelt administration.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt," he continued, "has contributed greatly to the collapse of democracy in the world by failing to build a strong economy in America."

VOICE IS RESTORED

Willkie, whose voice became so hoarse Saturday that he was forced to forego several train platform speeches, was treated by throat specialists in Kansas City, where he septn Sunday.

Before leaving Kansas City for Coffeyville, where he will deliver his first major campaign speech later today, Willkie turned over to Alf M. Landon some of the speech-making through Missouri and Kansas.

LANDO NSEES VICTORY

Willkie's speech at Coffeyville where he was a high school teacher 27 years ago, was set for 4 p. m. central standard time. The subject was "The Failure of the New Deal Theory of Government," and it was the candidate's second prepared address since his nomination. All his other speeches have been extemporaneous.

Before reaching Coffeyville, the schedule called for brief train stops at Butler and Nevada, Mo., and Pittsburg, Kas. Tonight Willkie will pause at Claremont, Okla., home of the late Will Rogers, and then go to Tulsa for an address.

It was the rear platform talks which Willkie asked Landon to make. The 1936 Republican candidate called on the present candidate last night, and Landon said afterward:

"We had a quiet chat. I confirmed to Mr. Willkie that despite all the New Deal propaganda he hadn't lost any ground."

Pals of Milton Slayer Sentenced for Theft

Armand Papineau, 23, of Dwight st., South End, who turned state's evidence against Joseph L. Brooks, convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of a Milton policeman, was today sentenced in Dedham superior court to Concord reformatory for auto theft.

A companion, George Zukauskis, 21, of Athens st., South Boston, was given a six-year suspended sentence by Judge Thomas H. Dowd. Both men were arrested by two Milton policemen, one of whom, Edward F. Lee, was fatally wounded by Brooks in front of Milton police station.

Dempsey Leads In New Mexico

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. Sept. 16 (AP)— Rep. John J. Dempsey preserved a precarious margin over Sen. Dennis Chavez today as their bitterly waged race for the Democratic Senatorial nomination neared a final count.

With the vote yet to be reported from many northern Spanish-American county precincts, predominantly favorable to New Mexico born Dennis Chavez 753 of the state's 914 voting divisions in Saturday's primary gave Dempsey 42,554, Chavez 40,811.

It appeared that the winner would be known only after the official canvass and possible precinct contests. The belligerent Dempsey took advantage of New Mexico's first direct primary to contest the State Democratic organization with a bid for the seat of his congressional colleague.

SAVANTS DEBATE ASPECTS OF MAN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—All aspects of man from totalitarianism to hormones will be discussed by 200 notables, including President Roosevelt and former President Herbert Hoover, at the University of Pennsylvania bi-centennial which begins today and continues through the week.

The President and Hoover receive honorary degrees, but on different days. The President receives his, doctor of laws, on Friday, when he delivers an address. Hoover talks Wednesday night on social science, but with his title still unannounced. On Saturday he receives the degree of doctor of civil laws. He is one of six former Presidents who already have received the university's doctor of laws.

The majority of the speakers are noted scientists, economists and religious leaders. Religion opens the program Monday afternoon with an address on thought trends by Dr. Jacques Martain of the Catholic Institute, Paris, France.

As if to signal the wide spread of interests to be covered during the week, the religious symposium will be paralleled by one on public accounting, to show the need of honest presentation of financial stewardship.

Relations between Jews and Christians will be discussed, along with Latin American affairs and the broad effects of human migrations. Totalitarianism will be backgrounded against the past and also against what is happening to the United States.

Personality, health and intelligence will be dissected in truly laboratory style by famous experts. Sex, blood pressure, cancer, old age, psychiatry and even psychoanalysis and mathematical ways of thinking are part of a week that seems to omit no science, no fine art of humanity and no important social aspect of modern knowledge.

In addition to French, British and Swiss scientists, Dr. Hu Shih, Chinese ambassador to the United states, and Sir Lyman P. Duff, chief justice of Canada, will participate. Both will receive degrees of doctor of laws.

Letters written by present officers of the university to persons yet unborn, who will be officials 100 years from now, will be placed in a stainless steel box, in the library vaults for a century. In the box will be many other mementoes of the present, all to remain sealed 100 years.

Luckiest Family Out of Bombed Home Unscathed

LONDON, Sept. 16 (INS)—The "luckiest family in London" emerged alive from the debris of their home today to tell their neighbors how they survived a 500-pound explosive bomb that hit and demolished their home.

Five of the six members of the family were completely buried—but dug out in time to save themselves. A sixth was blown out of the house—and merely bruised.

Now, Who Wrote That Speech?

By CARLISLE BARGERON

(Assigned by Republican National Committee)

Manifestly, a man writing under the auspices of a political committee has to be careful not to commit a political impropriety. But with the conviction that the truth is, in the long run, the best politics, we try to make this a strictly reportorial endeavor, let the chips fall where they may. In this vein we boldly head into Mr. Roosevelt's speech of Wednesday night, the words by his Brain Trusters, the music his own. He said:

> It is one of the characteristics of a free and democratic modern nation that we have free and independent labor unions.

There is not a member of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, with the possible exception of Dan Tobin, who is on the New Deal payroll, who does not know that the New Deal tried with every means at its command to destroy the Federation. They know that up until but a few months ago, New Deal journalists carried on such a propaganda campaign against them that it is amazing they survived.

Now, with the New Deal holding anti-trust suits over their heads, and also giving them that treacherous smile, Bill Green and some of the others consider it the better part of valor to play ball. We appreciate they are trying to use their best judgment but they are playing with fire.

BAH!
"SHOULD A PRESIDENT CONSENT TO BE A CANDIDATE FOR A THIRD ELECTION, I TRUST HE WOULD BE REJECTED ON THIS DEMONSTRATION OF AMBITIOUS VIEWS."
Thomas Jefferson.
"THERE IS NO INDISPENSABLE MAN."
Woodrow Wilson
FDR
WOOD COWAN

Cartoon by Wood Cowan

It is a fact that the turmoil over the past seven years has given a tremendous impetus to the organized labor movement, and this is a gain from which there will be no profit for years and years, however, because it has been accompanied by brutality, the untold loss of earnings, and THE LACK OF EMPLOYMENT. It has thrown thousands and thousands of honest workers into paying tribute to racketeers, not labor leaders. Why, the New Deal, under the guise of organizing the workingman, even encouraged Communists to collect "dues" from the pittances which the WPA workers receive.

A distinct advance for Labor is the legislation by which the Federal Government stands behind a man in his "right" to join a union. But will any sane man deny that the Communist-minded N. R. L. B. has thus far nullified gains which should come from this?

Mr. Roosevelt said:

> Fair minimum wages are being established for workers in industry; decent maximum hours and days of labor, etc.

The minimum wages and maximum hours act was conceived in the fertile brain of the former Ku Kluxer, Hugo Black, whom Mr. Roosevelt named to the Supreme Court. The bill (providing a 30-hour week) overwhelmingly passed the Senate in the early days of the New Deal. The House was ready to pass it overwhelmingly. MR. ROOSEVELT HELD IT UP FOR THREE YEARS.

Make no mistake about it, the Business interests of the East were solidly behind it for the purpose of checking the competition of the South. The Act is NOT BEING ENFORCED IN THE SOUTH YET!

Mr. Roosevelt said:

> You will remember that kind of opposition in the campaign of four years ago—four years ago, when certain employers, certain politicians and certain newspapers, all of whom are now active in this campaign, in an effort to mislead and intimidate labor; four years ago they went to the extent of putting untrue electioneering notices in pay envelopes in order to smash the new Social Security Act and to force its repeal by electing its enemies.

We seem to remember that these "evil influences" warned that it was a payroll tax. AND THEY WERE RIGHT!

Had it not been for the persistence of Republican Senator Vandenberg, you would by now be paying an ADDITIONAL ONE-HALF per cent of your wages and a total of 3 per cent by 1949, for the New Deal to throw away. That is what is done with the one per cent you are paying; the benefits come from taxes which will be increasingly levied on you from now on.

Henry Morgenthau never made any bones about looking upon these payments as simply more revenue for the New Deal to spend. He could hardly restrain his enthusiasm as the one per cent of your wages and the one per cent from the employer began to roll in. When it came time to paying you something back—well, Congress could APPROPRIATE for that.

But there is the framework of a great reform here, and whatever it is, Mr. Roosevelt HELD UP ITS PASSAGE FOR THREE YEARS.

SAFEGUARDING LABOR GAINS

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee)

If President Roosevelt had agreed to certain [illegible] program any time during the past seven years, the opposition to him today would be hardly more than a whisper.

To conceal their real purpose, the Republicans have set up a convenient smoke screen of catch phrases about defending the Constitution, protecting the American way of life, and the need for retaining traditional economic principles. The actual target of the assault is the program of laws which the Roosevelt Administration has enacted to safeguard the interests of the workers, the farmers and the unemployed.

When the President's magnificent leadership was saving the capitalistic system back in the dismal days of early 1933, no one was unduly exercised about the menace to Constitutional rights. Even former President Herbert Hoover before him, moving in his cautious and timid way, was able to turn a few corners without exciting the wrath of the Constitutional purists.

Did anyone ever challenge the constitutionality of the RFC under which billions of Uncle Sam's money was poured into the banks, the insurance companies, the railroads, and other private enterprises? Of course not. Big business needed the cash and needed it badly. Why split hairs and torture legal meanings when the lords of industry and finance could see salvation in no other way?

A few Democrats challenged Hoover's constitutional right to declare a moratorium on war debts without first receiving Congressional approval. They were hooted down as obstructionists and soreheads. Two members of the House, later directors of the ill-fated Liberty League which carried on a bitter court fight against most New Deal reforms, actually raked the dissenters fore and aft for their "legal quibbling" when Mr. Hoover was saving Europe from collapse.

RECALLING 1936

The situation today is identical. The majority of Roosevelt foes, including many big newspapers, heartily approve the Administration's foreign policies and the defense program. So does candidate Willkie. But they can't stomach the laws enacted for the laborers and the farmers.

President Roosevelt, in his excellent address to the Teamsters Union, put his finger on the sore spot fairly and squarely, and the labor leaders in the audience knew what he was talking about. He simply recalled the mean, underhanded, last-minute campaign which the Republicans waged against the social security law in 1936. You recall the silly tales about employes being forced to wear "dog tags" around their necks in lieu of identification cards. Said the President:

"You will remember that kind of opposition in the campaign of four years ago—four years ago, when certain employers, certain politicians and certain newspapers, all of whom are now active in this campaign, in an effort to mislead and intimidate labor; four years ago they went to the extent of putting untrue electioneering notices in pay envelopes in order to smash the new Social Security Act and to force its repeal by electing its enemies."

LOVE ME IN NOVEMBER

The [illegible] forces are hard at it again this year. They [illegible] national defense, [illegible] any other handy weapon, as an excuse [illegible] the hard-fought gains of labor. As the President said, these are the people "who love the laboring man in November and [illegible]." Wendell Willkie may be sincere in endorsing some of the Democratic reforms, but he has never in his life been identified [illegible] for social reform.

Despite the opposition clamor, and no matter what the pretext, President Roosevelt refuses to yield an inch in battling for the cause.

"It is my hope," he said, "that soon the United States will have a national system under which no needy man or woman within our borders will lack a minimum old-age pension that will provide adequate food, adequate clothing and adequate lodging to the end of the road without having to go to the poorhouse to get it."

THE WOMAN WHO LIVED IN HITLER'S HOUSE

By Pauline Kohler

Pauline Kohler Says:

"This is a story of facts about Hitler, facts which, until now, have been unknown to the world. I was a servant at Berchtesgaden. I had a unique opportunity of seeing the real Hitler. I saw him when he no longer had the eyes of admiring crowds upon him.

PAULINE KOHLER

"It has been said that no man is a hero to his valet. It is even truer that no man is a hero to his maid.

"I escaped from Germany. As I write this I know that in a few days I shall be sailing for Brazil to build up a new life there. But I want the world to know the real Hitler, to know the truth about his private life, about his women friends, about the men who surround him, about the secrets of the mysterious mountain chalet of Berchtesgaden.

"Everything I reveal I have myself seen or have learned from unimpeachable informants. I have tried to present a true objective picture. In parts the picture is an unpleasant one. But then the truth about a man like Hitler must always have its unsavory side.

"If this book helps those who are fighting against Hitlerism to understand something of the supreme enemy of civilization I shall feel that the years of horror I spent at Berchtesgaden have not been entirely wasted."

In Concentration Camp

In the Boston Sunday Advertiser yesterday, Pauline Kohler told how she happened to become a servant in Hitler's house. In 1933, first her parents and then her young daughters were seized by the Gestapo, and, as a result of her sorrow and anger, she found herself in the Dachau concentration camp.

Released in 1934, after having seen young women beaten and one girl killed, she was employed as a housemaid by a Nazi official and his wife. Three years later he abruptly released her and recommended her for a vacancy in Hitler's household staff. Pauline Kohler attributes the action to the wife's suspicions and jealousies.

Before she was taken to Berchtesgaden, the Gestapo chief Himmler himself examined and cleared her. Then she was photographed and fingerprinted.

The story as published, without opportunity for confirmation, for what the author purports to be.

Now Continue:

I DID nothing during my first day as Hitler's maid. A storm trooper named Erik Kettler was appointed to show me every room in Berchtesgaden and, after a tour of inspection I was expected to know my way about without asking further questions.

I learned early in that task. If a door should be left open, no matter how slightly, or in a few minutes' absence, German people were going to be in it. Berchtesgaden is a veritable palace, furnished with every luxury that money can buy.

Kettler was quite excited about it. At first he showed me the main entrance, then he turned and said proudly: "Fräulein, now you have seen the finest reception building in the world."

It was a huge hall, with a floor of polished marble. Above it was a gallery, and a broad staircase led to the upper floors. Two huge chandeliers hung from the ceiling, and the walls were covered with rare Gobelin tapestries.

Actually, this entrance, decorated Kettler said, had at first been planned for use in America. They would have, at least $500,000 for it.

"But you could not Europe," I gasped.

"Well, there are wars and wars," said Kettler. "Some day Europe will come to its senses and make peace. Then the Führer will be glad that it would be well to have a building of this kind for the exchange of ideas between the two countries."

"Is that the reason why Hitler has built this palace?" I asked.

"Oh, no," said Kettler. "The Führer has built this palace because he loves the mountains. He has never been happy anywhere else. He has always wanted to live here. He has always said that he would like to die here. But of course, if anything should happen to him, the palace would be very useful for the exchange of ideas between the two countries."

I learned very soon that Kettler was a man who could not be induced to say anything that he did not want to say. He was a Nazi of the Nazis, and he was very proud of the fact that he was a member of the Führer's bodyguard.

Hitler, he told me, was the greatest man in the world. He was a genius. He was a saint. He was a god. He was everything that was good and noble and wonderful.

"Then I suppose you would do anything for him?" I said.

"Anything," said Kettler. "I would die for him."

"Have you ever had the chance?" I asked.

"Not yet," said Kettler. "But I am ready. I am waiting for the day when I can show the Führer that I am ready to die for him."

I learned very soon that Kettler was not the only man who felt that way about Hitler. Everyone in Berchtesgaden felt that way about him. Everyone was ready to die for him. Everyone was ready to do anything for him.

Hitler, I found, was the only person who was not ready to die for Hitler. Hitler was ready to live for Hitler. Hitler was ready to live for Germany. Hitler was ready to live for the world.

Hitler was a man who was not afraid of anything. He was a man who was not afraid of death. He was a man who was not afraid of life. He was a man who was not afraid of anything

EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, SEPT. 16, 1940

THE CONGRESS of the United States has responded to the hysteria of the times and the political pressure of a powerful Administration by ordering the creation of a vast conscript army.

The very least consequences of this unprecedented peacetime procedure include the forced impression of some hundreds of thousands, and perhaps ultimately millions, of young Americans into professional military careers for which Americans habitually and traditionally have little liking.

The possible consequences are unpredictable and unimaginable, since vast professional armies are not commonly maintained by democracies and are usually the implements of autocracy.

However, it is possible that the American people can retain their democratic character through a supposedly temporary suspension of the democratic way of living, and at some subsequent time—let us hope—not too distant time return to the full enjoyment and protection of their democratic institutions.

THE TRUTH is that we are probably in this predicament as a penalty for our long neglect of opportunities to create an alert and adequate citizen soldiery.

Twenty or even ten years ago, if we had installed compulsory military training in all schools and had required brief but intensive annual periods of training for all youth, we would NOW HAVE a citizen army entirely sufficient for the present emergency.

The long-established and always-successful democratic Swiss system of maintaining a citizen army instead of an enormous professional army could easily and very wisely have been adopted as the democratic American system—and might well be STILL adopted.

However, President Roosevelt and Republican Candidate Willkie are in agreement that we are now so imminently threatened with war that there is no time for the Swiss system—in fact, no time for many other vital democratic processes which American government normally and usually employs in its emergencies.

Congress having been so influenced and instructed, and having so decided, there is nothing for it but to keep the conscription adventure as efficient and honest and just as possible, as democratic and American as possible.

LET US NOT DESPAIR too deeply about our admittedly perilous situation.

It is true we are going through all the motions of preparing for war.

It is equally true that government is getting daily more frankly and brazenly dictatorial, and will soon have large and disciplined military forces to enforce its dictatorial edicts if American statesmen choose to descend to that level.

But we still have at least the formality of peace, and perhaps inexorable events abroad as well as the self-interest of America will deter either Mr. Roosevelt or his possible successor, Mr. Willkie, from employing our conscripts too ambitiously or too aggressively.

We still have an opportunity to inquire into the democratic sincerity and faith of candidates for the entire House of Representatives and a third of the Senate.

AT LEAST WE CAN AND CERTAINLY SHOULD PROVIDE OURSELVES WITH A THOROUGHLY AMERICAN CONGRESS.

Conscription is now unavoidable.

Let us KEEP IT AMERICAN.

BOSTON'S CITY CLUB, affectionately known as the last male fortress, has fallen to women invaders. But the invasion was in every way a most pleasurable one.

LESLIE BLAKE
At City Club

Beautiful young socialites and models, including Miss Leslie Blake, Miss Barbara Keith and Miss Irene Ryan, paraded through the staid halls last week, wearing the very latest in hats and clothing.

The purpose, they told City Club members, was to acquaint husbands with fashion world developments.

Equipped with this information, gentlemen could more easily and tactfully assist in the selection of their wives' wardrobes.

On the surface, the idea seems fine. But deep down underneath, we truly fear, it is loaded with dynamite.

Imagine any husband's looking sternly at his wife's newest chapeau acquisition, recalling the beauty of the young socialites and models, and voicing such an opinion as:

"That hat is 20 years too young for you. Why don't you get something more suited to a woman of 50?"

On The Side

By E. V. DURLING

DOES your husband have a dull, domesticated look? Cheer up, Lady, he can be a Clark Gable. A Manhattan outfit, now specializing in improving feminine beauty, recently experimented with a man. In 50 days 50 pounds were taken off this fellow and his general appearance otherwise improved. Today the organization is thinking of opening a department devoted exclusively to restoring men's schoolboy figures and complexions. However, the sponsors are not optimistic about men's taking this up of their own accord and are hoping wives will force them to do so. I asked one woman if she would send her husband, and she said: "Not me. He's enough of a hit with other women as he is. What would happen if he was fixed up to look like Robert Taylor?"

DO YOU THINK you have lived before? What were you, a king in Babylon or a Christian slave? Have just been reading an interesting article on this subject by Shaw Desmond, who says he believes everybody has lived before. And he cites some examples in an effort to prove his contention . . . Explaining to her mother why she hadn't done so well in her lessons one youngster said: "I didn't like the teacher." Sounds like a poor excuse, but there may be something to it at that . . . Not all models are young and beautiful. In Boston matronly appearing models show clothes intended for women with such figures. My informant says the matronly models "have more poise" than the glamour girl type . . . "I am 15 years older than my husband and ideally happy," says a Detroit wife. Very encouraging, what? On the other hand, a New York husband writes: "After 24 years, my wife gave me the gate and I was true to her and worked hard all that time."

ANN SHERIDAN TELLS TRUTH ABOUT KISSES
But Dislikes Way They Spoil Movie Make-Up

A PROBLEM that has been the cause of much speculation among the feminine portion of the population has been investigated by Harold Heffernan. He has asked women of Hollywood how they feel when kissed while acting. Most asked said there was nothing to it. Was "just routine." But Patricia Morison and several others told the truth. Said Patricia: "I think any normal girl gets a certain reaction from being in a man's arms and being kissed even if it is before the camera." Said Linda Darnell: "Whether kissed before the camera or otherwise my heart always pounds violently." And Ann Sheridan said: "I get a mild kick if kissed by a fellow I happen to like. But kisses certainly make a mess of your film make-up."

"WHAT CAN you give a person convalescing from an operation besides flowers or books?" asks a client. How about one of those very small radio sets? Gift record for convalescents in this country, I believe, is held by Dorothy Lamour who after an appendectomy received 195 baskets of flowers, 68 books, 26 bottles of perfume, eight rabbits and six radio sets.

MOST ENTERTAINING picture I have seen in past five years is "The Great McGinty." Not only Brian Donlevy, the star, performs brilliantly, but the same can be said of every member of the cast.

MY DAY

HYDE PARK, Sept. 12—Saturday and yesterday have been beautiful days. I think spring and early autumn are my favorite seasons in the country.

Spring, because it is so exciting to see everything come to life again, and autumn, because the tang in the air seems to restore a vigor which the summer has relaxed.

The colors that come gradually to our countryside are perhaps more beautiful than any in the whole pageant of seasons.

There is beauty, of course, in every season, but nothing lovelier than the blue sky of autumn with white clouds scudding across it. The gold, red and green of the trees repeat themselves in the fields where the goldenrod and the various creeping plants make a carpet of color.

I HAVE SPENT the mornings out-of-doors and had a few guests this week-end. I very much enjoyed seeing Dean Mildred Thompson of Vassar at lunch Saturday. She is just back after a long illness but, while she may be still weak in body, she is certainly a person who gives one a feeling of the utmost vigor in her thoughts and mental activity.

In the evening, on Saturday, Ethel and Franklin, Jr., brought four of their young friends to supper at my cottage, though they were staying at the big house.

We certainly had plenty of conversation. How much value it was to any of us, I really cannot tell. One able young lawyer argued his political belief against all the rest of us and did very well, I thought, considering that the balance of numbers was distinctly against him.

Yesterday they were all back for lunch with me after what, I fear, will be the last swim in the pool this season, for by next week-end the water may be too cold.

If you have not seen the three essays on the purposes and problems of American education, published by the Harvard University Graduate School of Education, Cambridge, Mass., I think you will be interested in reading them.

Two of the essays are by Dr. James Bryant Conant and were published, one in the Atlantic Monthly this past May, and the other in Harper's Magazine, May 1938. Both of them are well worth reading for anyone interested in education and the development of democracy.

The third essay in this pamphlet is by Francis T. Spaulding.

All three lay the groundwork for a changed and improved system of public school education in this country and are a stimulant to the thinking of all of us.

JOLSON STILL FRETS DESPITE PRAISE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Al Jolson's colleagues were reading the favorable reviews he received after the opening of his new show last week. "With all his success, Jolson still has no capacity for enjoyment," they declared. "He's always so worried about his standing in the field of entertainment—that he hasn't laughed once, in the past ten years." . . . "I disagree," Eddie Cantor dissented. "I once saw Jolson laugh, a few years ago. Two famous comedians were headlined at the Palace, and flopped terribly. Jolson was almost hysterical."

MOVIES DEPT.: William Wyler, the movie director, was in Lindy's telling of his early days in Hollywood, when he went he went to work for Universal Films. Carl Laemmle, head of the company, delivered to all employes a form-card marked "What's Wrong with Universal?" and requested all of them, without signing their names, to write their suggestions on these cards, and drop them into a box . . . Wyler believed that this was only a whim on Laemmle's part, and so he wrote: "Why don't you get rid of that no-talented Wyler?" Next day he almost was fired.

PSYCHOLOGY DEPT.: Laemmle brought Professor Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia, to Hollywood with a contract to apply his thorough knowledge of psychology to the motion picture industry. Pitkin's job was to read the film stories in advance of production, and then tell the Universal producers and directors exactly what stories and scenes would be successful with audiences—audiences whose psychological reactions he had studied . . . Prof. Pitkin's first lecture was made in the lunchroom, at 1 o'clock. He spoke for two hours, but made no impression upon the restless, fidgety producers and directors. The psychological theories he adduced were perfect, but he had forgotten that his audience had eaten no food since breakfast.

THEATER DEPT.: George Jean Nathan, anxious to make the Drama Critics' Circle Prize an award which would be more coveted than the Pulitzer Prize, exerted a great deal of influence upon William Saroyan and helped induce him to reject the Pulitzer Prize. Saroyan accepted the Critics' Circle Prize, and issued a statement questioning the right of the Pulitzer Prize committee to issue an award . . . But now, more than ever, Saroyan is convinced that he is right, and that this should encompass all awards. And so Thursday night he declared that henceforth he will refuse not only the Pulitzer Prize but also the Drama Critics' Circle Prize.

BOOK DEPT.: John Gunther and Ernest Hemingway emerged from 21 Club . . . "How's business tonight?" Gunther asked the autograph hunters . . . "Well, we got Alan Jones and Irene Hervey's autographs, but it took us two hours," they replied . . . Gunther pointed to his companion, and said: "Get him. He's Ernest Hemingway" . . . "Get him," said Hemingway. "He's John Gunther" . . . The autograph hunters chorused, resignedly: "Comedians."

WASHINGTON DEPT.: Jerome Frank, chairman of the Securities & Exchange Commission, wrote a 12-page decision in a case heard before the SEC. His secretary decided that the decision was too lengthy. Next day he submitted to Frank a one-page decision. "All I did was cut out a lot of unnecessary wordage," he said . . . "Of course we'll use it," Frank told him. "Just tack it right on to the end of my decision."

BUSINESS DEPT.: Artie Shaw, now completing a movie with Fred Astaire, brought this idea to the producers. Shaw wanted an unusual movie short screened—which would be a distinct novelty in pictures. There would be scenes such as these: A motorist telling a cop. "But you just can't give me a ticket for speeding. I have influence." The cop thereupon tears up the summons . . . Another scene would have a husband telling his wife: "But I refuse to wash the dishes. I won't do it." The next shot shows the wife washing them . . . The final scene would show a prisoner screaming. "But you can't put me in jail. You can't do it." The next shot would show him free.

MONDAY MUSINGS: The lower depths of the scurrilous primary campaigns now nearing their end praise be! was reached by the candidate who accented a speech of vilification by terming a populous section of the city as "the red light district" . . Here, he said, lived his opponent.

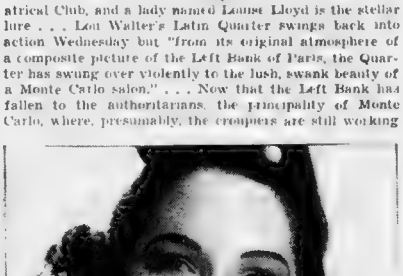
THE BIENNIAL ABUSE steaming out of thousands of radios has disgusted so many citizens that something in the form of a movement is ready to crystalize in an attempt to restrain the licentious use of democracy's free speech . . . You hear this sentiment in all parts of the city, not excepting the tolerant Rialto which is slow to fume.

WHAT HAPPENED TO that legislation designed to place a check on the more vicious and slanderous tongues among the "candidates"? . . . Scores of the perennial slanderers are in the current primary fight, and many of these seem to grow more bitter with each defeat . . . Some of them are obviously illiterate, and their fantastic attacks become more ludicrous in the impurity of the language used.

CONGRESS MAY SOMETIME be forced to intervene as an act of national defense . . . Because such brawls as the one now going on should provide more cynical amusement to a Fifth column . . . They actually give succor and comfort to the enemies of democracy in producing a feeling of superiority and confidence . . . If these cowardly gutter feuds be examples of the exercise of free speech, then the Bill of Rights needs reframing, in the opinion of thousands besides this reporter.

EVERY NIGHT IS A FIRST-NIGHT again this week in the Nightclub belt . . . Fifi D'Orsay is featured at Ben Ford's new place, the Tic Toc . . . The opening show is scheduled for tonight . . . At the Ritz Roof, a new singer named Joan Merrill who is sent on from New York tagged "Discovery" will warble to the accompaniment of Ruby Newman's music . . . Ort's has gone zombie and rhumba with the conversion of the grill into El Tropico Room, in which you are promised a visit to the "South Sea Isles" . . . Meantime, The Beachcomber, which started the bamboo and burlap craze, continues to prosper . . . The Casa Manana recalls Hy Sands, a flippant master of ceremonies whose humor made a hit last year, and Bob Hardy's re-cast orchestra now on the "hot" side is featured.

THE NEW KEN has re-lighted the erstwhile Theatrical Club, and a lady named Louise Lloyd is the stellar lure . . . Lou Walter's Latin Quarter swings back into action Wednesday but "from its original atmosphere of a composite picture of the Left Bank of Paris, the Quarter has swung over violently to the lush, swank beauty of a Monte Carlo salon." . . . Now that the Left Bank has fallen to the authoritarians, the principality of Monte Carlo, where, presumably, the croupiers are still working in a remnant of freedom and European civilization, is due for a bit of recognition.



JOAN MERRILL AT THE RITZ ROOF
Singing "Discovery" Comes Here From New York

JOE "LOVE EYES" CANDULLO and Anthony Bruno will alternate as head bandsmen at the Latin Quarter, and although Maestro Bruno is described as a "multi-instrumentalist and sportsman," nothing has yet been done in changing "Love Eyes" sobriquet to "Romance Cornea," or something . . . With the brand new and sparkling Southland opening Thursday—in black and coral and with a new lobby-wide bar, and with Ranny Weeks returning Friday to the Mayfair's podium as boss of his now-famous band, habitual first-nighting ringsiders should be yelling uncle several days before they evacuate their favorite haunts in honor of the visiting Legionnaires.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS MORE STARS

By Louella O. Parsons

James Roosevelt

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16 Presidential campaigning in the family or not you can put it down in your little book that Jimmy Roosevelt isn't going to have any time for politics. From here on in he's going to be busier than the proverbial one-arm paper hanger supervising two productions for Saturday he pulled a real coup when he signed Franchot Tone and Geraldine Fitzgerald for his "Martin Eden." With Lloyd Bacon, Warner's ace director, already promised to Jimmy and all set to report for work, "Martin Eden" will be on the [illegible] about the same time he [illegible] 'Pot O' Gold," starts rolling.

AT DINNER the other night some of Lewis Milestone's friends were discussing the story he has just bought—"The Red Pony" by John Steinbeck. Some of them thought he was very wise and others wondered if Steinbeck would get them into the theaters. That, I suppose, depends on the story. "Of Mice and Men" didn't do as well as you might expect, for it was a grand picture, but "Grapes of Wrath" cleaned up especially in England. Milly feels this Steinbeck property is a good investment and he has been in conference with the author who has given him many suggestions. I have an idea that RKO or United Artists will release the picture, which will be made as the next Milestone production.

The Woman Who Lived in Hitler's House

go down to the cellars. Fraulein Oberst followed us. No men were present. A few moments after the erring maid came in.

The Fraulein made a speech in which she announced that rigorous discipline must and would be maintained among the female staff. She went on to say that she had called us together to see the punishment she meant to administer to a girl who was insolent or inattentive.

She picked four of us out and ordered us to fasten the girl to the vaulting-horse. We obeyed her. There was nothing else we could do. That girl had to be punished. She allowed us to strap her down without screaming or struggling. The shame of allowing the Fraulein's orders, we partially stripped her.

The Fraulein picked up a birch and began to flog the maid. She gave her 20 strokes—but the maid never made a sound. Blood, though, trickled from her lips where she had bitten them in the effort to restrain her cries.

THE OTHER HOME

Berchtesgaden is Hitler's real home. But he has another retreat which few visitors see. I only entered it once. It is within view of Berchtesgaden—a building of steel and glass on the summit of 6,000-foot-high Mt. Kehlstein. It is called the "Eagle's Nest." Hitler ascends to it in a lift quarried out of the heart of the mountain.

It consists of two rooms only. One of them is a small kitchen, the other an enormous sitting room of which every wall is of glass. Sitting in it must be rather like sitting in the center of a bubble. Its furniture is simple. A desk, two or three divans, and a large telescope through which the Fuehrer can peer. That is all.

It is to this room that Hitler goes to brood. No telephone connects him with the outside world. He sits there sometimes for hours dreaming and planning new schemes of conquest. I believe only two foreigners have ever visited this hide-out—one was Unity Mitford, the other Count Ciano. I shall have more to say of the Mitford girl later.

There is some secret about this "Eagle's Nest." What it is I cannot say. It may be some mechanical device, planned to protect Hitler from attack if ever the almost impregnable house at Berchtesgaden is taken by his enemies. But whatever it is, one was never allowed to ask many questions about the method of its construction.

Some of Hitler's staff declared that the Fuehrer planned to lie there after his death, as Lenin lies in the Red Square at Moscow. It is quite likely. It is the kind of thing that would appeal to his imagination. Now, of course, it is unlikely that his body will ever know such a resting place.

This, then, is Berchtesgaden — the storm-center of Europe.

And now what of the man whose home it is? I have spoken to the Fuehrer some half-dozen times. Once he talked to me for over half an hour. But I have seen him hundreds of times, have seen him with his friends, discussed him with his other servants, watched and studied him for many months.

I feel I know him as few outside his small circle of friends can ever hope to know him. Now it is time the world should see him through my eyes.

One curious fiction current in every foreign country is that Adolf Hitler has little interest in food. I can assure you that the kitchens at Berchtesgaden are probably the most carefully supervised and important rooms in the entire menage.

It is true that the Fuehrer is a vegetarian, but he is finicky to the point of obsession about what he eats and how it is served. Every morsel must be of the best and woe betide Otto Schlieben, head of the domestic staff, if it is not cooked to perfection. Four chefs are employed in the kitchens. Every one came from a different famous Berlin restaurant.

They are under the supervision of the only foreigner serving in Berchtesgaden. This man is Rudi Vanyor, a Hungarian. He got his job because he is the greatest authority on vegetarian food in Europe. He is now a German citizen and is paid a fabulous salary.

The Fuehrer is a late riser, contrary to popular belief, and he never breakfasts before 10 o'clock. Often it is 11. He takes a simple meal, usually comprising a glass of orange juice, followed by a few slices of rye bread and butter.

Hermann Goering has said that Germans prefer guns to butter, but his Leader loves both. He usually gets through half a pound a day. Local farmers send supplies to the kitchens daily.

Lunch is Hitler's favorite meal. It begins invariably with vegetable soup, of which he manages to get through an incredible amount. The recipe may be worth putting on record.

Here it is: Onion, celery, chopped parsley, potatoes, turnips, carrots, nut compound, slices of apple, flour, water and salt. Soup is followed by fish, for Hitler is not a true vegetarian but merely a non-meat eater. He has a passion for trout, served with a special butter sauce. Saute potatoes usually accompany the fish. Then a great bowl of assorted nuts comes to the table and the Fuehrer simply stuffs himself with these.

DRINKS MILD BEER

He is not strictly teetotal, though near enough for all practical purposes. He never touches wines or spirits, but he does have an occasional glass of 'near beer,' which is much weaker even than light lager. I imagine one could drink quarts of this beer without experiencing the slightest alcoholic effect. Its chief resemblance to real beer is its color.

Hitler drinks an enormous amount of coffee. And he likes it to be very black and very sweet. Sixteen cups a day, and they are big ones, make up his usual ration.

Dinner is the day's most elaborate meal at Berchtesgaden—but not for the Fuehrer, oddly enough. Though the meal rarely has fewer than six courses, they are enjoyed only by the guests of the day. Hitler eats little at this time. More often than not he takes a small salad, potatoes cooked in one of a dozen different ways, and a sweet—of which he is very fond.

Long before he came to real power, Hitler used to visit the Kaiserhof or Adlon hotel in Berlin every afternoon and munch his way through a large plate of cream buns. These are his favorite sweets and they are on the menu at least four days a week.

Guests at dinner are permitted to drink wine provided it comes from German vineyards. This proviso has always irked Goering, who prides himself on being something of a connoisseur of wines and boasts a very fine cellar stocked with French and Italian wines at his own home, Karin Hall.

Smoking, of course, is absolutely taboo in Hitler's presence or even in any room he might enter. He loathes the smell of tobacco, and he has been known to snatch a cigarette from the lips of an unsuspecting guest enjoying a quiet smoke on one of the terraces when the Fuehrer came across him.

SNAPPY DRESSER

As most men smoke, Hitler eats sweets. He eats pounds of them a week. He is childishly fond of taffy and chocolate. A bag of sweetmeats is always in his jacket pocket. I once heard him declare to Goebbels: "They give me energy for my great tasks, Joseph."

Another thing I discovered after a very short time at the Berghof was that the German leader is the worst-dressed man in the land. Yet he has a private tailor, one Herr Andergruss. His clothes are always ill-fitting, because he will not suffer to be properly measured or fitted, with the result that his tailor has to guess most of his measurements.

Hitler is completely indifferent to clothes. For a supreme ruler he must have the world's smallest wardrobe. It consists of a few uniforms, five ordinary lounge suits and two suits of evening dress. At that even these are the despair of his valet.

For one thing, the patterns of the materials he chooses are dull and suburban. Black and dark gray are the only colors he tolerates in his civilian suits. He treats them badly, too, slouching in chairs, with legs bent so that his trousers always become baggy at the knees within an hour or two.

Also, his pockets always bulge with bags of sweets or masses of papers. In fact, Hitler can be guaranteed to reduce the best-tailored suit to a shapeless collection of ill-fitting garments in a few days.

As a matter of fact, he regards interest in clothes as a weakness in men, and he never ceases taxing Goering with vanity because of that great man's notorious collection of uniforms.

Hitler has a sentimental affection for the simple uniform of the Storm Trooper — brown shirt, breeches, knee-high boots. It is the one uniform in which he feels at home.

The one great peculiarity of the Fuehrer which causes most trouble to his immediate circle of colleagues and servants, however, is his insomnia. He sleeps extremely little. And it is his abiding curse.

It makes his time table of daily work terribly difficult and exacting for ordinary folk. He rarely gets up before 10 a. m., as we have seen, and he never does any work at all until after lunch. Even then, he usually spends the afternoon talking with visitors or gossiping with friends. He does little serious work. This begins when dinner is over at half past eight. Only then does the Fuehrer go to his desk.

First, he studies a summary of news from the world's press. This is prepared by a dozen linguistic experts who are called press secretaries. They have a difficult task.

It is not true, as I have seen in foreign newspapers, that Hitler's advisers, such as Ribbentrop and Goebbels, censor these news digests to keep from the Fuehrer news they don't want him to know about. But the press secretaries exercise a kind of censorship of their own—not for political reasons, but on the grounds of prudence. Hitler cannot bear humor at his expense.

Those School Lunches

By MARTHA LEE

If school lunches are among the problems that confront you at this season, it's a good idea to start collecting helpful suggestions now. By packing a lunch you can better control the noon meal for the school child than by giving him a luncheon allowance. Both plans have their points, of course. The one-time lack of hot food in the luncheon brought from home is now overcome with thermos containers.

Milk, fresh fruits, fresh vegetables, whole grain cereals, eggs and meat—all the essentials—can be included in the school lunch box—not necessarily at one time, but often enough to give the child properly balanced meals. Be sure to include fresh fruit every day.

ORANGES FOR LUNCH

Probably the orange is the ideal fruit for the school lunch, available as it is the year around. It is an appetite stimulator for the "won't eat" child, and is rich in the protective elements so necessary to growing children—vitamins C, A and B, as well as calcium. This fruit is well protected and not easily bruised in packing; the skin may be loosened and sections partially separated before it is placed in the lunch box.

Since the sandwich is the basis for a majority of school lunches prepared at home, most mothers will welcome some:

SANDWICH SUGGESTIONS

Orange juice is good to thin peanut butter or cream cheese, or to moisten fillings of ground dates, raisins, figs and nuts. These make especially excellent fillings for toasted sandwiches.

Lemon juice gives added tartness to meat, egg and fish fillings where desired. Moisten fillings with lemon juice to taste. Or spread bread with butter (½ pound) creamed with lemon juice (1 tablespoon).

ORANGE MARMALADE SANDWICHES

Spread one slice of sandwich with orange marmalade, one with cottage or cream cheese or peanut butter. Marmalade fillings are especially good on orange or brown breads.

ORANGE HONEY BREAD

Variety in sandwich breads is an important factor in the appetizing school lunch. One of the most delicious varieties is an orange honey bread, sure to be popular with the school child. Moreover, it is a simple recipe for the busy mother.

2 tbsp. shortening
1 cup honey
1 well beaten egg
1½ tbsp. grated orange rind
2½ cups flour, sifted before measuring.
2¼ tsp. baking power
½ tsp. soda
½ tsp. salt
¾ cup orange juice
½ cup chopped nut meats

Cream shortening and honey. Add egg and orange rind. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Add dry ingredients to creamed fat and honey mixture, alternating with orange juice. Add chopped nuts last. Pour into an oiled 9 x 5 inch loaf pan. Bake at 325 deg. F. for 70 minutes. Cut when cool and spread with cream cheese or orange marmalade.

ORANGE SALAD CUP

As a change from fruit to be eaten out of hand, prepare a salad cup which may be packed in a small jar with screw top, paper salad cup or thermos container.

Combine:

½ cup fresh orange slices quartered.
¼ cup pineapple pieces
¼ cup diced apple
1 tbsp. lemon mayonnaise.

Dry-Skin Fluid Cleanser

By ARLINE GOULD

RADIANCE of the complexion signifies an underlying theme of cleanliness . . . and that means more than frequent cleansings, it means pore-deep searching out of grime and sebaceous wastes with a special liquid cream, meant for that complexion which is most frequently badly cleansed . . . the sensitive, dry type!

There is a wax-free, milky liquid cleanser . . . pride of an exclusive line . . . which is filled with grime-penetrating fruit oils . . . and which is usually far up in the higher price brackets. For two weeks, starting today, you may have a $1 introductory size, a once-a-year special, which has been increased to three ounces over last year's sought-after two-ounce special at the same price!

When you use it, you'll be amazed at the richness of the fluid cleanser . . . and you'll be able to understand why it is so softening and good for the dry, sensitive skin even while it thoroughly, deeply cleanses all traces of embedded make-up and dust.

You'll also discover after a week or two of using the fluid cleanser, how it coddles the smooth texture of your complexion . . . particularly if it is inclined toward fragility and premature lines. This fluid cleanser eliminates all manipulation or pulling of tissues. When you remove it with cleansing tissues, you'll find that a tapping, blotting method will leave your skin soft and untouched looking as a child's.

If you'd like to learn about this $1 introductory size special on a wonderful, dry-skin fluid cleanser made of fruit oils, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IMAGINATION — there's the most potent force in our lives, yet not one person out of a thousand uses it constructively. Few of us even take it seriously.

Imagination—why, that's just a make-believe game we play with ourselves in our idle hours.

But we're wrong. Imagination isn't a pretend-game. It's the tool by which we may carve our destinies. It lies behind every achievement.

SOMEONE sent me the following story about Mrs. John C. Fremont taken from the magazine "YOUR LIFE."

"In a day of trouble, Mrs. John C. Fremont, the wife of the great Western frontiersman and pathfinder, said about herself: 'I am like a deeply built ship; I drive best under a stormy wind.'

"One wonders if she started like that. She was delicately bred, used to wealth and comfort. One suspects that, so bred and now finding herself the wife of the great frontiersman, she began to picture herself as she had need to be—a deeply built ship, driving best under a stormy wind. She had seen such a ship. When the tempests rose about her life she rallied herself around a picture of herself, until it was herself. She did not start so; she became so."

THAT STORY interested me because I married into Mrs. Fremont's family, and I know how true it is that "she did not start so; she became so."

Jessie Benton was only 15 when she met the man who was to bring California into the Union and win her heart, and only 17 when she eloped with him, he but 22. Brilliant, impetuous, ardent children determined to have what they wanted at any price, but with no more idea of their great destiny than newly hatched chicks.

But—already her imagination was at work, picturing great adventures, creating her own and her lover's design. And long as she lived, that spirited image of herself was to make even her smallest act dramatic and significant.

Of course, it didn't just happen. In time she was to know every extreme of loneliness, danger, hardship and heartbreak. She might have abandoned herself to self pity seen herself as a martyr. But she didn't. Never once did she let herself down, allow herself to seem weak or cheap or abused to herself.

Suppose you began to imagine yourself splendidly, and "rallied around" that glorious image—

WHERE WOULD THAT IMAGINATION TAKE YOU? THE SKY'S THE LIMIT!

BLINSTRUB'S, EL TROPICO SHOWS GAY

Nan Blackstone Heads Cocoanut Grove Revue

By SAM BERENSON

Our particular hand-plucked posie of the week to capable Rube Bodenhorn, who has given our town so many of its lovely after-dark parlors.

A list of Rube's White Way Children would read like a list of Who's Who along the Rialto . . . his latest creation being the interior of the new Southland, which draws back the latch for its Fall opening on Thursday evening . . . the breath-taking parlor is the last in beauty and style . . . the opening features The Five Crackerjacks, So. American Beachcombers, Al & Freddie, and the Davis band, starring Emmet Mathews and Bobby Caston . . . the new foyer cocktail lounge offers the nimble-fingered pianoing of Haven ("In a Mist") Johnson . . . Bob Hardy and his men of swing doing nicely at Casa Manana . . . a good floor show here . . . A bright revue show zests the entertainment menu this week at the sleek Cocoanut, featuring the lovely Ann Blackstone who will capture the patrons' hearts . . . further elan to a banner revue is given by the Grove's famous doll line and the sparkling tune serving of Mickey Alpert's band . . . all in all, an attractive calling place

LOUISE LLOYD
Ken Club Dancer

With probably its gayest show of the season on tap, Blinstrub's Village smacks open the fortnight with a round of gayety which should find this spot a must on the going-out pad of every stay-up-late . . . a world of action sets the pace at this colorful South Boston oasis, with an extremely capable variety menu certain to draw down the house . . . dancing to the Karl Rohde group, which has done very, very well since the inaugural . . . The Village's formal fall opening is on Wednesday, paid admissions this year by closing time . . . The Ken Club, with its smack-bang opening behind it, continues to set a lofty pace in entertainment offerings . . .

Headquarters of the smart-set would appear to be the Beachcomber, where the exotic South Seas atmosphere is a lure that is practically irresistible . . . there is not a single false note in the island motif that the Beachcomber brings to town, a romantic appeal that is found in its food, song, and entertainment . . . jot it down for the week's calling . . . At the Mayfair on Friday, Ranny Weeks and his orchestra open an extended engagement . . . Ranny has long been he'd in high esteem by Boston night clubbers, Steuben's autumnal session places emphasis on "name" entertainment . . . the current lovely spotlight stealer is Mimi Kellerman, with the popular Lew Conrad making with a nice brand of baton-swishing . . . winning public acclaim is the Vanity Fair out Newbury St. way . . . Sally Keith, purty tosser of the tassels, again heads the starry revue at the Crawford House . . . and thus the Crawford carries on with its policy of torrid entertainment .

PEN and ink impressions of the new Steuben Vienna revue.

Screen Star Fifi D'Orsay Opens New Tic Toc Club

A screen comedienne whose charm grows with the passing of time and the hilarious son of one of the funniest fellows who ever tickled the funnybone of America, combine their talents to entertain folks who journey to the opening of the new Tic Toc Club tonight.

Chester Cappy Cappy's

Tom Stockley Dorgan's

They are Fifi D'Orsay, the French lass with the mischievous eyes and the throaty voice, and Joe Cook, Jr.

Others in the show are the Three LaVernes and Magda, Apache artists, Mae Diggs, and the dancers, Dixon and Dolores.

The Tic Toc will open daily 11:30 a. m. and will present noon entertainment.

LATIN QUARTER OPENS SOON

Not to be outdone by the series of club openings along the Rialto, Izzy Ort gathers unto his Tropico Room a roster of headline talent to make the week's gaiety at his grill a joyous thing indeed . . . well adorned with bands, gals, and talent the current revue reveals this parlor at its best . . . Cappy continues to draw its well deserved throngs from far-off points . . . genial host Cappy readily making the patron feel at home . . . The new Ruby Foo-Tom Maren Beachcomber in Providence calls for an early October opening . . . Log-onnaires from all parts of the country will get Lobster at its tastiest at Cain's delightful spot . . . and for what's hooray, this notch will be open throughout the year . . . A well beaten path has been made by Gadabouts to Dreamwood Bird in Egypt.

Wednesday dusk finds the Latin Quarter, smartly beaming in its combination of modern motif and

Hurricane No Jinx; Opening Grand Success

Many a Bostonian may have spent the day with a wary eye cocked for black cats and sidewalk ladders, but to the Hurricane on Cambridge st., Friday the 13th was simply opening night. And apparently the town's nightclub set are the least superstitious of all people; for in spite of the calendar's date-line, the Hurricane was jammed, sending this spot off to one of the season's gayest openings. Not a mirror was cracked the whole evening — hopeful signs that the success of its merry inaugural will continue throughout the year.

Kaufman-Hart Comedy Eagerly Awaited Here

Sponsored by that habitually successful triumvirate, Producer Sam H. Harris and Authors George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, "George Washington Slept Here," opening at the Plymouth Theater on Thursday night, Sept. 26, is being awaited here with more than the usual interest.

Local playgoers have become accustomed in the past 10 years to being given the pleasure of sitting in on the birth of Kaufman-Hart successes. "The Man Who Came to Dinner," which received its first plaudits here last year, is now approaching the second year of its triumphant run at New York's Music Box. Before that, there were such outstandingly popular productions by this team as "You Can't Take It With You," "I'd Rather Be Right," "The American Way," "Merrily We Roll Along" and "Once in a Lifetime."

Another trio brought together by the new play which promises much are the featured players in "George Washington Slept Here." Ernest Truex, Jean Dixon and Benny Churchill. All three have been away from the legitimate stage for from four to 10 years, each having a reputation for themselves as three of Hollywood's foremost character comedians. They will be supported by such well known Broadway players as Ruth Weston, Percy Kilbride, Mabel Taliaferro, Kendall Clark, Paula Trueman, Peggy French and others.

Seats for Clarence Day's "Life With Father," made into a play by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, with Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern in the leading roles, go on sale today at the Civic Repertory Theater, opposite Symphony Hall. In addition, several large department stores are prepared to telephone orders as a courtesy to their patrons who wish to attend this outstanding laugh hit of many seasons, and the mail orders for the early days of the engagement are unusually heavy.

The past history of "Life With Father" shows every evidence of being repeated in Boston. In the only other three cities that have seen it, it has quickly established itself as popular with every type of theatergoer.

"Life With Father" is concerned with the charming and tempestuous life of the Clarence Days in the 1880s in New York, as revealed in the immortal books of Clarence Day, Jr. "Life With Father" "Life With Mother" and "God and My Father."

YOU'RE SEEING DOUBLE—GISHES!!! No, in this instance it isn't done with mirrors. It's two famous sister stars, Dorothy (right) and Lillian Gish, in the identical costumes of Vinnie, the captivating mother of "Life with Father," year's comedy hit. Dorothy will come to the Civic Repertory Theater Mon., Sept. 30, in the play. Lillian Gish continues her triumphant engagement at Chicago's Blackstone Theater, where "Life with Father" is now in its seventh month.

TOP FUNSTERS—Ernest Truex goes down on his knees to ask forgiveness from Jean Dixon in this scene from "George Washington Slept Here," a new Kaufman-Hart comedy opening Sept. 26 at the Plymouth.

Ed Wynn Sure Goes the Limit In Helping His Boys and Girls

Ever one to lend a helping hand, Ed Wynn, in his characteristic role of a genial, muddle-headed, credulous simpleton, engages in the maximum of aiding and abetting in his latest revue, "Boys and Girls Together," which starts on its third and final week at the Sub'ut tonight.

Even so cynical a journal of the trade as Variety identifies it as a certain Broadway hit when it opens at the Broadhurst Theater on Oct. 1.

As a traffic policeman, he manages to get fabulously mixed up when, under the red and green lights, he undertakes to unravel Paul LaVarre and brother from an acrobatic impasse from which there seems no escape.

When the Six Willys start to tossing hoops and Indian clubs through the air, Wynn cannot resist the urge to participate. So great is his eagerness for goodwill and co-operation that he risks a skull fracture as he wades through a barrage of clubs to show that he, too, would let loose a wooden volley.

Introducing his Cocktail Hour Girls so great is his admiration for them, so vast his concern for their well-being, that he, Wynn, star, owner, director and author of "Boys and Girls Together," lays a rug down a long stairway that the entrance of the five o'clock sirens may be under opulent auspices.

We see Mr. Wynn in a rowboat. Mr. Wynn as the rear end of a horse, Mr. Wynn as a ballet master, as a player of a piano mounted on a bicycle frame. He's full of suggestions, is Mr. Wynn, even when he's mute. That the goal will he seeks, the method by which he seeks it, strikes a responsive chord among his auditors is evident from the applause he receives from the moment he crawls out of a moth-ball-loaded trunk until he beams on the final antics of his spangled colleagues at the fall of the final curtain three hours later.

Jack Teagarden Opens Thursday

"Shoot the Works," a variety revue featuring Jack Teagarden and nationally-known orchestra "The Band That Really Plays the Blues," opens a one-week engagement on the stage of the RKO Boston's Theater starting Thursday. "Dance, Girl, Dance," RKO Radio's adaptation of Vicki Baum's story of backstage life with Maureen O'Hara, Louis Hayward and Lucille Ball in the stellar roles will be the screen attraction.

Jack Teagarden

Teagarden, one of the most famous trombonists in modern musical annals, is a recent arrival to the "name" band division.

As a trombone soloist, Teagarden starred with Red Nichols, Ben Pollack and Paul Whiteman, among the better-known orchestras.

Teagarden has had outstanding success at many of the nation's best known spots. Of late he has been on tour with Jack Haley and Mary Carlisle in "The Star Parade." Featured with his band is Hilde Simmons, charming song stylist, and David Allen, romantic tenor.

Other acts in this revue will be Betty Bruce, dancing sensation of "Keep Off the Grass" and "The Boys From Syracuse"; the Diamond Brothers, dynamic knockabout comedians; Vic Hyde, the mirthful one-man band, and other acts.

"Dance, Girl, Dance" tells the adventures of a dancer (Maureen O'Hara), who dreams of some day becoming a famous ballet dancer, and of a go-getting chorine (Lucille Ball), whose ambition is to lure any man who is financially attractive, and Louis Hayward as a disgruntled playboy who becomes one of her victims.

BETTY BREWER
Boston's Guest Tomorrow

Betty Brewer Here Tuesday

Betty Brewer, Hollywood's newest and most colorful child discovery, will make her first visit to Boston tomorrow.

Accompanied by her teacher, 13-year-old Betty is coming here in advance of her picture, "Rangers of Fortune," a Paramount production which is to have its local premiere late this month.

On her arrival tomorrow, little Miss Brewer will be hostess to the local press at a special breakfast at Hotel Statler.

POLICE CIRCUS AT GARDEN

More than 200 performers from all parts of the country were here for the opening this afternoon of the professional circus sponsored by the Massachusetts Police Mutual Aid Association.

Beacon Film Hit In Fifth Week

Breaking all house records, "Secrets of a Model," behind the-scenes picture of the lovelies looking out from the magazine ads today starts its fifth smash week at the Beacon Theater.

It is the story of girls in Hollywood who wish as models in daily expectation of "the big break." The beginning of a glamorous movie career.

It's a life of contrasts, this being a model before fame strikes and living and dressing on the most modest budget while modeling the costliest of gowns and furs and attending the most lavish of penthouse parties, or so "Secrets of a Model" presents the story.

Deanna Durbin Hit at the Square

The Deanna Durbin starring film hit, "It's a Date" featuring Kay Francis and "Man from Dakota," with Wallace Beery and Dolores Del Rio, are to be seen at the Square Theater through tomorrow.

Bijou's double-header through tomorrow teams "Never Say Die," with Bob Hope and Martha Raye, and "Cross Country Romance," co-starring Gene Raymond and Wendy Barrie.

Bride Sees Mate In Death Dive

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Anita Rosenberg sat horrified as her estranged husband, Louis, 25, suddenly jumped up from a chair on the roof garden of a 23-story hotel where she lived ran to the parapet and jumped to his death.

Police called it suicide after Mrs. Rosenberg, a bride of nine months, said she had informed her husband, a salesman, that she would not immediately answer his plea for a reconciliation. They had been separated a month.

MONEY TO LOAN

HOW TO GET A LOAN AT LOWER COST

Reduced rates cut payments on all loans over $100

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2½% per month has long been below the lawful maximum. Now a new reduction has cut the rate to 2% per month on that part of your loan in excess of $100.

Simple to borrow

We require no security or wage assignment, no sticker of any kind. (Loans are made on husband's or wife's note.) No credit investigation of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to go to court with you.

Cash Loan You Get	Amount You Pay Back Each Month Including All Charges
	6 mo. loan	12 mo. loan	16 mo. loan	20 mo. loan

NEW HAMPSHIRE ELEVEN 'LITTLE GIANT'

By AUSTEN LAKE

DURHAM, N. H., Sept. 16 Autumn comes early among the leafy purlieus of the University of New Hampshire. The air is sweet with woodsmoke and the faint scent of nature's incense. Morning frosts have begun to cool the impetuous heat of summer, and already the brash, youthful greens of field and forest are giving way to ochres, russets and purples of mid-September.

The bold eye of a summer sun grows sleepy. Harvest husks dry in the hedgerows. The wind begins to whisper of memory, and time—that inexorable umpire of all living things, leans on its scythe, waiting for winter. Ah, me! The autumn's got me.

So you turn uphill from the Dover road along a time-mellowed highway with trim lawns, successors of grandpa's student day and under an arch of elderly elms to the big brick ark which is the new Lewis Memorial Gymnasium. Young co-eds in gay whatnots, plaid-kilts and furlined sacks drift along the shady walks or loll on the football bleachers.

Old gaffers with grizzled chins and sun-creases on their necks buckboard in from farms with loads of growing greens and fresh-plucked poultry. Autos, some shiny examples of the automotive art and some crumpled relics of the model T era, nose into the curbs. A college town is waking from its summer's sleep.

Bill Cowell isn't there any more. The rubicund, rheumatic, half deaf old football philosopher who raised New Hampshire's athletics from a king of rural corn-husking bee into a co-ordinated and well-equipped college department now sleeps under a grassy mound, his mortal usefulness done. But his monuments—the neat athletic oval, the indoor sport plant, the phys-ed files and exercise systems, remain. Generations of New Hampshire men mourn him.

Today, George Sauer—a broad, bony product of Nebraska and the professional football wars at Green Bay, Wis., carries on.

A disciple of rugged individualism from the slap-'em-down school, George's system calls for hard, bone bending scrimmages and twice a day workouts which have already marked his squad with cleat scars, surgical plaster and collodion cocoons.

Like Max Baer, the hallucinated fistic ex-champion, used to harden his head by banging it against steam pipes, N. H. lads learn to take it the hard way.

13 LETTERMEN REMAIN

Last June's commencement took 13 and left 13 of Sauer's 1939 letter squad—an even shake. But, like a shrewd poker player, George managed to draw a straight flush with at least one veteran at every position a complete veteran varsity which includes Harold (called "Slippery" because of his hula hips) Hall; Stacy Clark, Clarence Parker and Dick Gordon, backs; Steve Lampson and Don Jones, ends; Matt (Capt.) Flaherty and Horace Martin, tackles; Bob Onnela (not of the Celtic "O's") and Tony Touart, guards; Ed Burtt and Ed Gould, centers.

The backfield makes an incongruous assortment with a pair of semi-midgets, Hall, 142, and Clark 137—lads of little larger than standard sized horse jockeys, matched with a couple of beefy behemoths, Gordon, 190, and Parker, 188. But in case you imagine that the little shavers are sacrificial goats to the great collegiate idol, football, shed no tears. They're as tough a couple of tykes as ever chewed iron filings and expectorated sparks.

HALL ELUSIVE

In the day's tackling practice (Sauer likes "live" tackling to let his lads feel the impact of flesh against leather and canvas) nobody as much as dusted a finger tip on Hall's pants ("You gotta get him by the belt loops," advised one player to a panting mate. "Bell, heck," said the kid, "Yuh gotta use flit").

This Gordon lad (he wears a ferocious glower from X-ray eyes under awning brows though they say, by nature, he's as gentle as a southern zephyr) is the heavy duty, crashing back who hardened himself for his work-horse task by lolling around a beach all summer.

"Guess he wanted to soften himself up so he wouldn't kill anybody this fall," said an admiring assistant manager.

Then there are a pair of juniors named Bill Feehey (161) and Pete Meneghin (164) who are putting on a Kilkenny cat fight for the quarterback job.

Quoth Sauer, "can't choose between 'em, so I'll have to play 'em both."

Collegiately speaking it is not a big backfield. But against the teams New Hampshire plays (the schedule is arranged on the small college theory that equals shouldn't meet equals—heh, heh! Wait till they meet St. Anselm) it is what Harvard's Dick Harlow would call "adequate." A quartet of sophomores, Ray Paquin (no relation to the Paris modiste), Winslow McDonald, Charles Judd (Everett) and Bob Davis complete the backfield profile.

"I have high hopes," said Sauer (shades of Gilmour Dobie).

The ends? Steve Lampson (he dug clams at Ipswich all summer) is another of these vest-pocket types (no hips, wide shoulders; giving him the effect of an anatomical triangle). He's No. 1. Herb Gline, a senior who suddenly caught fire toward the close of last season, is expected to be No. 2. With Jones, a letterman, dropping back to an understudy. (There are only six boys on the end squad and four are sophomores; Roy Good-

UMPIRE MAGERKURTH PETE REISER JIMMY WILSON

SLIDE FOR LIFE—Pete Reiser, Brooklyn, slides safely home on Joe Medwick's single to tie the score, 1-1, in the ninth inning of the second game between Dodgers and the Reds at Brooklyn. The Reds' emergency catcher, Coach Jimmy Wilson, who replaced injured Ernie Lombardi, makes futile stab for Reiser. Umpire George Magerkurth calls the play. Game was called on account of darkness in the 11th with the score still knotted at 1-all. The Reds took the opener, 13-3.

Speeding Chisox Have Flag Chance

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP) Mister James Dykes is the only casualty so far in the amazing upward surge of the Chicago White Sox.

The fiery little manager fell off the bench during a tense moment of the White Sox double victory over the Red Sox and skinned his knee.

Dykes, 44 years old and veteran of many a fierce title campaign, both as a player and pilot, isn't committing himself on the club's pennant chances, but the percentage table and dope sheet don't mean a thing to him and his ball club. In fourth place, four games back of the leading Cleveland Indians.

FANS DELIRIOUS

Ask him about his flag prospects and he'd probably throw you out in the alley. But there's no denying that Dykes and his charges are doing a bit of mental arithmetic in their spare moments.

The Sox have only the slimmest of chances to outrun Detroit, Cleveland and New York, but that almost infinitesimal chance has brought the South Side fans flocking to the club.

Hundreds of fans swarmed around the Sox dressing room after they had clipped Boston twice, running their victory string to eight and giving them 15 wins in the last 18 games.

Whatever chance the Sox have rests on their ability to win virtually all of their remaining 12 games, including three with the New York Yankees, while Detroit and Cleveland battle each other in their six engagements.

PITCHERS DO IT

No one seems to know exactly how Dykes, recognized as one of the game's best tacticians, managed to drive his club so high, but a look at recent pitching records tells the tale.

Seldom has he had to remove the starting pitcher, and only once in the last six weeks has he needed three hurlers in a single game.

Four E. L. Playoffs Return $9534.20

HARTFORD, Ct., Sept. 16 (AP) Thomas Richardson, president of the Eastern Baseball League, announced today that the gross gate of the first four games in the Governor's cup play-off series between Binghamton and Hartford amounted to $9534.20, of which the players on the two teams will receive $2920.35.

Of the remainder each club receives $2433.63, taxes took $581.39 and league dues $865.28.

The members of the winning team will divide $1946.90 and the losing team $973.45. Binghamton leads in the four out of seven games series three games to one.

WILSON RED SOX PITCHER

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 Mired in fifth place, 3½ games behind the pennant-minded White Sox, Boston's Red Hose sent Jack Wilson after today's game with the Dykesmen. Bill Dietrich, Chicago hurler, opposed him.

Jack Wilson

Despite the outcome of today's fray, the series will be a disappointing one for the Boston clan, inasmuch as they dropped a Sunday doubleheader to the White Sox, just as they were beaten three times running on their last trip out here.

Old Ted Lyons was the principal hero of the Sabbath proceedings, pegging a three-hitter to beat the Cleninmen in the opening game, 3-1. In the nightcap, Duncan Rigney beat the Sox in a 10-inning duel, 4-2.

It was Lyons Day at Comiskey Park, and some 40,000 Chicago fans turned out to do him honor.

The ancient pitcher was given a coupe valued at $1550 by the fans, a check for $1800 from the club, a hunting suit from the sports writers, a radio from the announcers, a $5000 fishing outfit from another knot of fans, a hunting jacket from Rip Radcliff and Vernon Kennedy, a watch from Vice-President Harry Grabiner, cuff links from Secretary Joe Barry, golf clubs and bag from the ushers and other attaches at Comiskey Park and a gold money slip from Moe Berg of the Red Sox, who years ago used to room with Lyons.

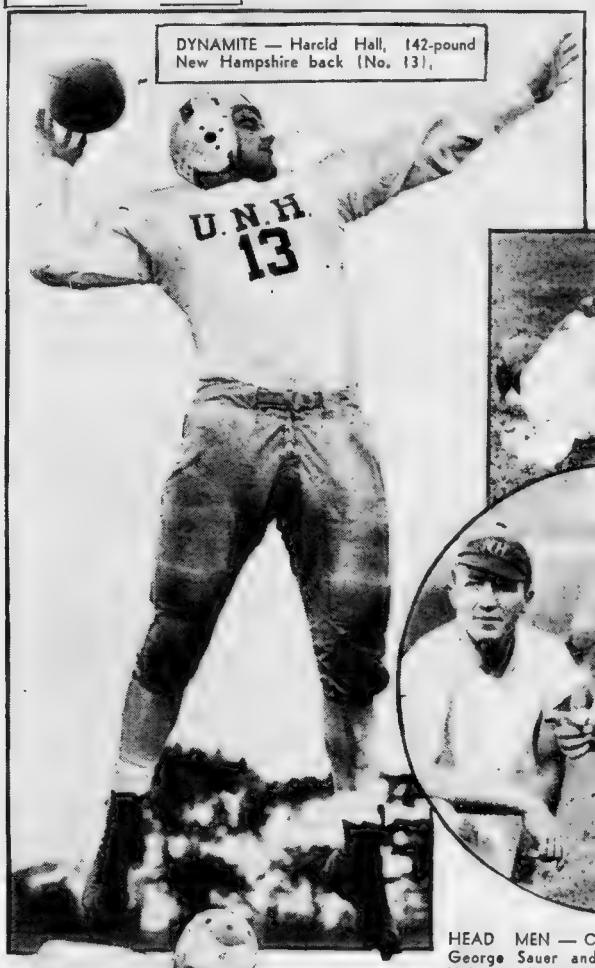
GRIDIRON GRANITE

DYNAMITE — Harold Hall, 142-pound New Hampshire back (No. 13).



DAVID—Stacey Clark slants off tackle as two mates take out would-be tackler. Clark weighs only 137 pounds but tears into bigger boys like David into Goliath.

HEAD MEN — Coach George Sauer and Matt Flaherty talk over season's prospects. Flaherty is a tackle.

GOTCHA—Clinton Morse snaps halfback Winslow McDonald in action during N. H. drill while Mrs. Morse looks on approvingly. Mr. and Mrs. Morse are seniors at the University.

Jenkins, Montgomery Tangle in Philly

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16 (AP)—Lew Jenkins, recognized in some sections as world's lightweight champion, and Bob Montgomery, a local Negro boy who wouldn't mind having the crown himself, tangle at Shibe Park tonight for perhaps ten rounds in a non-title fight that has the betting men mumbling in their soup.

With "home-town boy" regard backing up young Bob's record of 28 victories in 29 professional starts, the wagering on this shindig is as close as a motorcycle cop tailing you at 50. The betting commissioners were making it 5 to 6 and take your choice between the Sweetwater swatter from Texas and the local Negro.

On his knockout victory over Lou Ambers, by which he won New York and California recognition as 135-pound head man last spring, the former cavalry horseshoer figures to win—but it was no proposition on which to break open your kid's bank to bet.

Since flattening Ambers, Jenkins was himself given a going over by Henry Armstrong. He broke training for this fight to make a quick trip to Texas to see his ill mother, and, on the way back, was injured in an automobile accident.

Montgomery, on the other hand, is being hailed around Broad and Locust streets as the best lightweight this city has seen since Lew Tendler was in there pitching.

Although only 21, he has kayoed 16 opponents, scoring the last crusher over Jimmy Vaughan for the first knockout that veteran ever suffered.

With the chances of a knockout in prospect, the faithful are making the turnstiles click, even to the satisfaction of Promoter Herman Taylor. He estimates that, with a break in weather, some 15,000 customers will contribute to a gross gate of around $30,000.

Lombardi Out For 10 Days

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (INS)—Attending Physicians announced today that catcher Ernie Lombardi, who sprained his right ankle chasing a foul fly off the bat of Joe Gallagher in the sixth inning of the first game of a Sunday doubleheader with the Dodgers, probably will be lost to the league-leading Cincinnati Reds for at least ten days.

Physicians announced that no bones were broken in the hard-hitting catcher's ankle. Dick West, a catcher, was immediately recalled from Indianapolis to fill the vacancy.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

BOSTON COLLEGE will take most of the limelight as the New England football season moves into first speed on Saturday. Frank Leahy's Eagles clash with Centre College in their opening game and on the following Saturday take on the classy Tulane eleven at New Orleans.

CHARLEY O'ROURKE

This is an ambitious start for one of the best Boston College teams in recent years. Leahy would probably prefer to take on Tulane at a latter date, but he is not permitting this condition to upset his preparations for the important Southern contest.

Boston College showed steady improvement under Leahy last season. In its clash with Holy Cross, Boston College was a perfect football team and scored an impressive victory.

Then came the Cotton Bowl tussle in which Boston College lost to Clemson. The defeat at Dallas was due to the fact the Eagles went off form after the Holy Cross win. It was natural that a team that had been driving all season and then came through and won its climax game should experience a physical and mental letdown.

Leahy knew this better than anybody else. He didn't like the way Boston College trained for Clemson. The players lacked fire and some of the enthusiasm they had displayed entering the conflict with Holy Cross. It was not until the second half of the Clemson game that Boston College got rolling properly, and then it was too late to win.

Boston College had a stiff practice game last Saturday, and will be sent along at a dizzy pace this week. It is expected that the Eagles will display sufficient scoring punch to win from Centre. A team with backs like Charley O'Rourke and Lou Montgomery always has a chance to score early in a game.

While not underestimating Centre, it is the Tulane game for which Boston College is pointing. Tulane has one of the most powerful elevens in the South. It is able to field three top elevens.

Tulane is not expected to be troubled as much by the heat in New Orleans as Boston College.

It is likely that Leahy will make frequent substitutions in the Tulane game so as to keep the most possible power and speed in his lineup. A star player who is tired and slowed down a bit is not of much value to a football team.

NEW ORLEANS, with a touch of old France and old Spain, is an attractive city for the tourist. It has 1500 fine cafes and restaurants. Many of these cafes are situated in the French quarter of the city.

New Orleans goes to town when there is any kind of a celebration. The Boston College-Tulane game is certain to prove a good reason for the city fathers and local boosters to stage numerous parties.

One received an idea of the high type of football players they have in Louisiana when Louisiana State defeated Holy Cross at Worcester last Fall. Ken Kavanaugh, Louisiana end, gave one of the finest exhibitions of pass receiving ever witnessed in New England.

Tulane, like Louisiana, has some brilliant football players, and it believes that it will win from Boston College. Frank Leahy and John Curley have different views on this matter, but will remain silent until after the Centre game on Saturday.

ROCKY PALLADINO'S Little Beans vindicated the confidence New England race goers have in him when he won the $10,000 Eastern Shores Handicap for two-year-olds at the opening of the Havre de Grace meeting. In winning, Little Beans defeated Level Best who had beaten him at Narragansett Park. Little Beans' only other defeat in New England was by a disqualification at Suffolk Downs.

In this space on Saturday, this writer called attention to the fact that the early closing of the nominations for the $25,000 New England Futurity at Narragansett Park prevented Little Beans, one of the best two-year-olds in the country, trying for this rich stake. Due to the fact Level Best was an odds on favorite, Little Beans returned his backers $16.40 at Havre de Grace.

The Palladino color bearer runs just as well when a 1 to 2 shot as he proved by winning at this price at Rockingham Park. There is already talk that Little Beans will take part in the Kentucky Derby next year.

TONY SHUCCO of the North End tells me he is returning to the ring wars with the hope of getting a bout with Billy Conn . . . Shucco will start his come back campaign by meeting Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh in a bout in the "Smoky City" on next Monday night . . . Tony then will go to San Francisco where he will tangle up with Patsy Valentino, a red hot Coast favorite, in a 10-round tussle on September 30 . . . Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club is trying to get Conn to come to Boston to meet Al McCoy . . . If Shucco wins over Bobo and Valentino, he will also receive consideration for a Conn bout.

Indians Climb Back to Peak As Feller Stars

By the Associated Press

As quick as you can say Robert William Andrew Feller, the Indians have ascended again to the American League's throne room.

After trailing in second place since last Tuesday, the Indians took advantage of lapses on the part of their rivals and vaulted back on top, a full game in front of the Detroit Tigers.

Feller led the way to a double decker decision over the Philadelphia Athletics with one of his best performances. He gave two hits, struck out seven and for the second time in his major league career allowed no walks, in scoring a 5-0 shut-out.

It was Feller's 25th win against nine losses.

At the same time the man-eating Tigers were tamed 6-1 by Dutch Leonard of the Washington Senators.

The onrushing Chicago White Sox won two, and the slowing-up New York Yankees lost two, leaving this lineup:

AUSTEN LAKE SAYS:

fellow, Art Galli, Ed Macke and Allan Lamond).

CAPTAIN MARRIED

In fact there are only 30-odd kids in the entire squad, though history tells us that there have been some successful teams like Geneva and Centre, in the days when those "Bantams" were licking Harvard and Princeton, which never had more than eleven ablebodied players all told.

In fact I have heard Bo McMillin, the present Kansas coach and ex-recent tourist, tell how they used to carry their spare laundry under their sombrero hats when they first came trooping to Cambridge. They didn't even have a student manager.

The tackles? Captain Matt Flaherty (186 pounds, 6 feet, senior), is one—an angular lad with a serious and was married three weeks ago to a lissom girl cheer leader named Catherine Aheasha, a genuine football romance. Then Horace Martin (190 pounds, 5 feet 11 inches), another veteran, and Ray Hastings and Harvey Seel (there are only four tackles).

FROM MOBILE ALABAMA

For some mysterious reason Sauer doesn't know why himself, one of his veteran guards came to New Hampshire all the way from Mobile, Alabama. A curious coincidence considering that most of the N. H. squad centers around the immediate vicinity of Durham (only three are from outside New England). But Touart percolated up this way, where the usual procedure is for the deep and player-hungry south to raid the north.

"He's one guard," said Sauer, ous, half hamlet sort of countenance who big-brothers the squad "You'll have to guess at the rest."

The "guesses" then, would come from among Al Sakoian (Arlington), Wallace Ackerman, Jim Simon (he looks likeliest of the lot), Ed Mihalski Ed Lyszczas (pronounced like a squirt of soda siphon), and Bob Onnela.

Center—"look at him," invited George, indicating a handsome, flush-faced oval-headed, rolypoly named Ed Burtt. "You got to slaughter him to get him out of the ball game—definitely a 60 minute ball player."

So that kind of eulogy slims down the opportunity for other centers, like Ed Gould and Bob Neal, a very discouragin' man.

TUFTS ON SCHEDULE

As in past years New Hampshire has a conservative schedule of eight games which ranges from the four corners of New England (Colby and University of Maine from the Pine Tree State, Springfield and Tufts from Massachusetts, University of Vermont from the Green Mountains, and St. Anselm from New Hampshire.) That's the tale, Selah!

LYNN CLASSICAL JUBILANT WITH VET ELEVEN INTACT

By SAM BROGNA

The outlook may not be so bright on one side of Western ave., the side where Lynn English practices, but, on the other, where the beautiful Manning Bowl is located and where Lynn Classical holds its daily drill, there seems to be a more cheery atmosphere.

Although these two schools are bitter enemies when it comes to gridiron warfare, it appears as though English is counting on Classical to maintain the Lynn gridiron prestige this fall.

By this, we don't mean to say that Coach Bill Joyce's outfit will startle the schoolboy fraternity and have every leading college scout scrambling for a roundtrip ticket to the "City of Lights," but, the fast, hustling squad which is more or less a veteran one gives every indication of being right up there this fall.

When Joyce's squad reported two weeks ago, practically the whole team that started the annual Thanksgiving Day game against English, were on hand.

With the exception of one or two changes, Coach Joyce is quite satisfied with this eleven and is contemplating starting these boys in the opening game next Friday against Peabody.

The backfield of Frank Dancewicz at quarterback, Capt. Francis O'Leary and Joe Zannie at the halfback posts and young Ernie Savory, a colored youngster, is capable of handling the most intricate assignment.

COLORED QUARTET

Dancewicz, a 160-pounder, is the triple-threat. Can kick, pass, and run with the best of them. Capt. O'Leary also is slated to do his share of the three.

Other leading backfield candidates who saw their share of action last fall are Ben Waterman, Joe McGinn, Tom Brown and Ray McNulty. All these boys are over the 165 pound mark.

If the opportunity ever comes up, Joyce may field practically an All-Sepia quarter for, along with Savory, who is a neat ball toter, Ben Waterman and Tom Brown are colored boys and have shown well in workouts.

On the front wall in the center of the line, will be Mitchell Simorowski at 160 pounds. He will be flanked by Roy Cheever, running guard, and Dick Hosker.

Taking places along side these two stalwarts are Gasper Urban and Ed Sucharewicz, a 185-pound fast moving tackle. Ray Pearson and Cliff Canning round out the line.

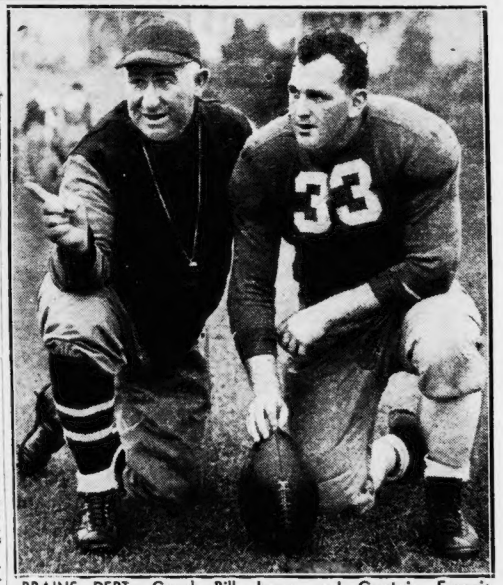
PEABODY FIRST FOE

Coach Joyce has drawn a tough assignment this Friday night when his team opens the season against a strong, championship minded Peabody eleven which already has tucked away a victory this year.

Peabody opened its season this past Saturday night with Cambridge Latin and won with but 30 seconds left to play, 7 to 0.

Following this nocturnal clash at the new Manning Bowl, the schedule has Gloucester, Revere, Haverhill, Leominster, Newton, Lowell, Everett, Chelsea and Lynn English listed in that order.

Tomorrow—Beverly



BRAINS DEPT.—Coach Bill Joyce and Captain Francis O'Leary of Lynn Classical in strategic huddle. Team should be in running for state title this year with veteran eleven intact.

Dedham Tilt Rained Over

Now that the schoolboy football season has been ushered in in most fitting fashion—two upsets to the same number of coaches—Dedham High and Malden Catholic will pave the way to the first busy week of the season as they clash tomorrow night in a lamp-lit game at Stone Park, Dedham.

The game was carded for tonight, but was rained over.

The Catholic eleven, which walked off with the Catholic League championship last fall while chalking up the only undefeated, untied and unscored on record in the state, will be defending its laurels under a new coach.

Brother Wilfred, a Somerville native who served as a second-team coach last year, will be making his bow a head coach. He took over the job, succeeding Rev. Brother Vincent, C. F. X., who was transferred from the Malden school to the post of director of athletics at Mt. St. Joseph College, Baltimore.

Out at Dedham, Jack Heaphy will be starting his 13th season as head coach. According to Jack, he will field a veteran eleven, and is quite confident they will come through on top. Graduation took Co-Capts. Nagle and Turner, tackle and back, and two other starters.

* * *

Thursday night, Watertown and Haverhill continue the after-supper contests as the former treks to Haverhill . . . Haverhill, winner of its opener Saturday by the lop-sided score of 33 to 0 over little Ipswich, will be out for the second kill . . .

* * *

Back to the opening week-end games, the Newburyport 6 to 0 win over Salem, the first in 18 years, was enough to cause a rumpus to the oldest schoolboy inhabitant . . . To its youthful coach Tom O'Donnell, former East Boston boy and Villanova athlete, goes all the credit for this stunning win . . . His fighting eleven did what none of his predecessors was able to do down along the past two decades . . . The score also was the first registered against the Witches by the Pikers since 1928 . . . But, this coming Friday night, they will be up against a tartar in Gloucester, the heaviest grid team in the state.

Another game that might be classed as an upset although a mild one, was the Chelsea win over Saugus . . . It was expected that Buzz Harvey's new star-spangled outfit would win only after a hard battle . . . But, as it turned out, it was just the other way around . . . The win gave Coach Charlie McCarthy, starting his first year as mentor of the Red Devils, more confidence.—BROGNA.

DOG TRACKS REOPEN

Dark for the past two weeks, Massachusetts' two dog tracks, Wonderland Park, and Raynham, will reopen tonight for their fall meetings.

Feature race at Revere tonight is the Autumn Inaugural, in which Form Nature, Suwanee and Jangle Jangle will compete.

Wonderland patrons will observe some improvements tonight, including the glassed-in lower portion of the grandstand and the enclosed lockup kennels.

Raynham, opening a 40-night session, expects even a more successful meeting than that which it conducted during the summer.

STENGEL WATCHES BABY BEES

With no game scheduled at National League Field today, Casey Stengel led a delegation of Bees to Hartford today to watch Jack Onslow's Baby Bees meet Binghamton in the Eastern League playoffs.

Hartford has won only one game to Binghamton's three in this playoff and will be eliminated if it loses tonight. Consequently, Onslow will shoot his star pitcher Frank Lamanna, against the New York State club.

Two of Hartford's leading pitchers, Lamanna and Art Johnson are expected to win regular berths with the senior Bees next season.

LaManna has won 13 games this year, Johnson 17. Both will join the parent club after the playoffs. Carvell Rowell, Sebastian Sisti, who were with Hartford a year ago, along with Bill Weitelmann, Chet Ross, Phil Masi and Sec. John Quinn will be at the game.

Pittsburgh will be in Boston tomorrow for a doubleheader and will play a single game Wednesday after which the Bees loaf Thursday and Friday.

Pitchers grabbed the headlines in the Sunday double header with the Cubs at National League Field.

Manuel Salvo gave only seven hits to win his tenth game since June in the opener, 7-4, and Dizzy Dean won his second victory since his return to the majors in the nightcap, beating the Bees, 7-3.

Sports Mirror

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Ray Billows beat Don Schumacher, 6 and 5, and Marvin (Bud) Ward defeated Art Doering, 2 and 1, in National Amateur Golf semi-finals.

THREE YEARS AGO—Record crowd of 24,940 at Washington saw Redskins beat New York Giants 13-3 in pro football league opener.

FIVE YEARS AGO — Rogers Hornsby signed three-year contract to continue as manager of St. Louis Browns at increased salary.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—Spencer Manrodt, former Brown guard, has signed a contract with the New York Football Yankees of the newly-formed American Pro Football League.

'I Can Prevent Baldness for You,' Says Noted Scalp Specialist

BOSTON, Sept. 15 (JW)—"If you are losing your hair or have an annoying scalp disorder, I can help you," says John E. Warner. "By correcting and eliminating the cause of your trouble I can prevent baldness for you and give you a normal, healthy scalp. My services are NOT offered to those completely bald (except cases of alopecia areata) because hair once lost cannot be re-grown. Don't wait until a disfiguring baldness has permanently ruined your appearance. If your head itches or your hair is excessively dry or oily and falling, take heed of these signs of approaching baldness and come in for free examination today. No case is ever accepted unless I feel sure I can help you. My scientific treatment is superior and more effective because of constant research and study; yet the fees are within the reach of all. Come in today and learn how I can help you just as I have helped thousands troubled as you are." The Warner offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington St., near the corner of West Street (opposite R. H. White's), Suite 710-715. Phone Hub. 1705. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. Daily—Saturdays to 6 P. M. Fees for treatment are very moderate. There is a separate department for women. Adv.

THE MOST PERSONAL SALESMAN in BOSTON

A Record-American and Sunday Advertiser Want Ad speaks all languages

It goes into tiny apartments and into great estates, carrying its sales message to the person to whom it is addressed.

It sells merchandise, rents homes, finds lost articles, helps people obtain knowledge in specialized fields. It is the sole salesman of many companies. There is nothing legitimate that the Want Ad cannot accomplish.

This powerful salesman wants to sell for YOU. Telephone Liberty 4000. Ask to have a Record-American and Sunday Advertiser representative tell you more about the most personal salesman in Boston.

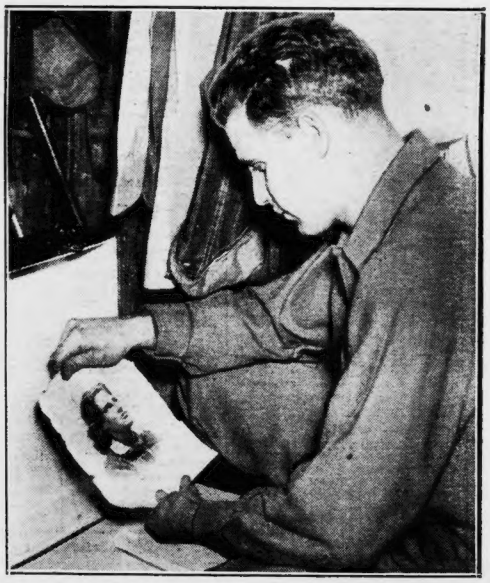
SHOWERS CLOUDY RAIN FAIR

Guard's M-Day—Officers line up at the Irvington st. armory today as 2200 Massachusetts National Guardsmen are mustered into federal service. They're members of 211th and 241st Coast Artillery Regiments.

Guard's Rifles Okay—No wooden guns will be needed in the training activities of the mobilized Bay Staters, for Louis Liberatore of Headquarters Battery checks up on the rifles that will be shouldered by the Coast Artillery units. Meanwhile, physical examination of men was the order of the day.

Boston Evening American Photos



It's Good-by—Private Raymond Bloom of Cambridge looks forlornly at the photo of his girl friend, Olive Gage . . . the girl he'll leave behind him when he goes to camp.
